NAZIS REACH ROAD TO MOSCOW

REGISTER FOR ARMY TRAINING AT 4 STATIONS

Richland County Youths Who Became 21 Since Oct. 16 Enroll Tomorrow.

HOURS 7 A. M. TO 9 P. M.

550 Expected To Check In at Mansfield, Shelby Booths During Day.

Richland county youths who have reached voting age since last Oct. 16 will sign up tomorrow for prospective military service.

Joining the 16,000,000 men from 21 to 35 who registered last October throughout the nation, an estimated 550 Richland countians who have just reached voting age will register tomorrow at four places in Mansfield and Shelby.

Registration, in charge of selective service board members and clerks, will start at 7 a. m. and continue until 9 p. m. Youths who have become 21 since midnight last Oct. 16 or will be 21 before midnight Tuesday will be required to register.

A large number of the young men who register tomorrow will be in the army before the end of this year, army officials said today. A lottery to determine order numbers for the new registrants probably will be held within two weeks and the new numbers will be infused in existing registration lists, it was said.

The army considers the younger men better fitted for military service because they are in better physical condition and have fewer dependents.

Effective today, draft boards will defer all draft-age married men and other registrants with one or more dependents to whose support they make "any substantial contribution," under an order issued by Brig. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, deputy selective service director.

It is expected that 750,000 young men will register tomorrow throughout the nation, providing a new reservoir of manpower from which the army can draw a part of the 900,000 men to be inducted into service during the coming year.

Youths who live on the west side of Main street in Mansfield will register on the sixth floor of the Farmers Bank building. Those who live on the east side of Main street and in all of Madison township will be required to register on the ninth floor of the Richland Trust building.

Young men in the rest of the county outside Mansfield and Madison township may register in draft board headquarters on the third floor of the courthouse or intemporary headquarters on the second floor of the City building in Shelby.

MARINES LOST?

Navy Probes Report Men Were Aboard Ship Sunk In Atlantic.

WASHINGTON—(U P)—The navy department today sought information from sources in London concerning a report that a number of United States marines were aboard a British ship, which was sunk in the Atlantic.

No official comment had been made on the report.

It was recalled that the navy department announced Saturday that a marine detachment of three officers and 60 men had been sent to London to act to facilitate communications between the various United States offices there. No information was given as to the method of transportation used.

NEW YORK — (INS) — Brenda Frazier, the nation's most ballyhooed deb and heiress to a $3,000,000 fortune, and John "Shipwreck" Kelly, former football star, planned to marry today in a private ceremony in the midtown Manhattan apartment of the bride-to-be's mother.

Immediately after the ceremony, the couple will fly to San Francisco en route to Honolulu, where they will remain for the summer.

Did Nazis Offer Collaboration to British Through Hess Before Making Spectacular Invasion of Russia?

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN
(Copyright, 1941, by United Feature Syndicate, Inc.)

WASHINGTON — Following the outbreak of the Nazi-Russian war, European capitals buzzed with reports of a German offer to Britain to make peace, then turn their united forces against Soviet Russia. These reports were not empty rumors; they were absolutely true.

Behind them is a story of the most audacious and astounding Nazi intrigue of the war to date. Its opening scene was the sensational Hess "flight" to Britain; its closing paragraph the "surprise" Nazi declaration of war on their ally, Red Russia.

The inner details of this brain-reeling plot are not yet unraveled and all of them won't leak out until the history books are written. But authorities have pieced it together and it is now possible to get the main outlines.

Following the victorious Balkan campaign which made Germany master of Europe, powerful military-Nazi elements, always hating the Communists, began urging peace with Britain in exchange for a British-German coalition against Russia. After a bitter struggle inside the Nazi party, Hitler sided with the anti-Red group and the wheels were set in motion to line up the British.

It was realized that they would have to be approached in such a manner that they could not doubt the authenticity of the Nazi plan. So Hess was chosen for this mission. Not only was he the one man in Germany closest to Hitler,

Capture Lwow, Second Column Circles Minsk

Germans Claim Entire Soviet Division Surrounded Near Baltic Coast as Reds Assert Karelian Thrust, Other Attacks Repulsed.

BULLETIN
(By Associated Press)

German panzer columns, striking through Russia's army defenses, were reported half way to Moscow today in a sweep that has already engulfed Lwow, former Poland, and, according to a Berlin spokesman has captured Minsk, 20 miles inside the old frontier of U. S. S. R. The Nazi spokesman indicated that Adolf Hitler's invasion forces already were in sight of Smolensk, 200 miles east of Minsk on the highway to Moscow. Smolensk is about the half-way mark to the Soviet capital.

(By Associated Press)

Adolf Hitler's invasion armies, plunging across Sovietized "buffer" territory into the U. S. S. R. itself, today reported the capture of Lwow, (Lemberg) Poland, in a drive toward the rich Soviet Ukraine, while other Nazi columns skirted the white Russian capital of Minsk and reached the highway to Moscow, 450 miles northeast.

Nazi reports also asserted that German troops had encircled a Soviet division — about 15,000 men — near the Baltic coast in a renewed push northward through Lithuania and Latvia.

The Rome radio said German motorized forces had occupied Minsk, 20 miles inside Russia's 1939 frontier, but Berlin officials merely noted that German columns had swept around the city.

Minsk is the capital of a Soviet republic whose designation of "white" has no political significance. Rather it derives from the costume worn by the natives.

Hitler's field headquarters made this announcement:

"Lwow was taken today. The Reich's war flag has been flying from the citadel since 4:20 a. m. (9:20 p. m. E. S. T. Sunday.")

The city lies 50 miles inside Sovietized Poland from the German frontier.

While the Germans claimed a rapid-fire series of successes, it was apparent that with the exception of the Minsk area, Russia's Red armies still were fighting west of the 1939 Soviet frontiers.

In addition, a Moscow communique declared that German attempts to knife across the Karelian isthmus from Finland, now fighting at the side of Germany, and to land troops by sea at Viipuri were repulsed.

Viipuri is on the Gulf of Finland, only 74 miles by railroad from Leningrad, Russia's second largest city.

The Soviet war bulletin also asserted that the Red army still was holding against violent attacks ranging from Murmansk, on the Barents sea, to the vicinity of Minsk and on south through the Luck-Lwow gateway to the great wheatfields of the Ukraine.

In this region, between Luck and Lwow, a flaming battle of 4,000 German and Soviet tanks raged into its fifth day with the

FAMED PIANIST SUCCUMBS AT 80

Paderewski, Father of Poland, Dies Fighting 4-Day Attack of Pneumonia.

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK—Ignace Jan Paderewski, internationally famous pianist and "father of Poland," was dead today at the age of 80 after a four-day battle against pneumonia.

The great virtuoso, who was known to millions of Americans, died at 10:35 p. m. (EST) last night in his 10-room suite at the Hotel Buckingham which he occupied with his 82-year-old sister, Madame Antonina Wilkonska.

At the "request of the family," it was announced, Paderewski's heart will be removed today and sent to his beloved Poland.

According to Dr. A. L. Lincoln, one of the several physicians who had been attending the aged musician-statesman, Paderewski remained conscious almost to the last. Oxygen had been administered a few hours before his death.

The Polish patriot contracted a cold June 22. His weakened condition was unable to resist its inroads and it developed into pneumonia last Friday.

Early today a cable was dispatched to the Polish government in London advising it of the death of the former premier. Paderewski had been serving as president of the Polish parliament in exile.

British Say Embassy Buildings Also Destroyed At Chungking.

The dispatch said bombs landed near the United States embassy.

COUNTY PARES BUDGET $5,524 FOR NEXT YEAR

Reductions Made In Funds For Improvements; Reports To Be Filed Soon.

In view of the increasing federal taxes for the defense program, Richland county will seek a reduction of $5,524 in the amount the county will need for operation next year, County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe said yesterday.

A county budget request for $451,361 for general fund expenses in 1942 will be submitted to the county budget commission before the July 20 deadline, the auditor said. Estimated county general fund expenditures this year were $456,885.

Wolfe said the major cuts will be in the children's home and courthouse improvement funds although a number of county offices will take slight reductions for the year under the proposed budget.

The children's home budget request was cut approximately $2,000 under this year's figures, Wolfe said, because the appropriation was boosted this year to finance construction of an addition to the home building.

With the new $15,000 courthouse elevator virtually paid for, the courthouse permanent improvements fund will be reduced sharply in 1942, the auditor said.

He said the county will need $900 more next year to pay workmen's compensation premiums for employes. That will be the only important increase in the budget request.

No budget estimate for the county road and bridge department will be set until the county learns how much will be available from the state in gas tax and auto license fees for the year, Wolfe said.

Budget requests for the county and its 40 subdivisions must be in the hands of the budget commission by July 20. The requests will be returned early in August with the commission's recommendations for changes.

$2,000 BLAZE

Welding Torches Ignite Crates at Westinghouse Plant.

Fire believed to have started by sparks from welding torches caused $2,000 damage in the storage rooms at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company shortly after 8 a. m. today.

The sparks flew from the torches of workers constructing new floors in the building and settled among crates containing hot water heaters. Approximately 200 of the crates were damaged by fire and water, according to Christ Reining, superintendent of maintenance.

Damage to the heaters and other materials will approximate $2,000, Reining said.

The Mansfield fire department was called but the fire had been brought under control by company firemen before their arrival, Reining said.

History Repeats In Russia

This map shows where history is playing a repeat performance. Brest-Litovsk was starting point of Hitler's drive in this war against Russia as well as jumping-off place for Ludendorff drive in last war. City was also seat of German-Russian peace negotiations in 1918. Arrows show Nazi lines of attack and their immediate objectives. Late dispatches today said Nazi panzer forces had swung past Minsk, and were already halfway to Moscow.

Mohican CCC Camp Stays Open for 4 More Months

Petitions Sent Government Officials Believed To Have Caused Change In Plans To Close Camp.

Petitions sent to government officials in Washington by organizations and clubs in the Mansfield area were believed to have been at least partly responsible for a federal order today which will keep the CCC camp at Mohican state forest open for another four months.

The camp, housing 147 veterans, was ordered abandoned 10 days ago as part of the government's non-defense retrenchment program.

And as the government's fiscal year ended today, the veterans were transferred to four other camps, three of them in Ohio and one in West Virginia, Camp Commander H. Ray Wagner reported.

He said however, that a company of 60 colored youths attached to a Chillicothe CCC unit would move into the camp tomorrow.

Although it was not known how long the company would be stationed at the forest reserve, Wagner said unofficial word is that it would be at least fall before they were moved.

The company is being transferred, officials said, to complete park improvements which had been started by the company moving out today.

These include the construction

Two Brothers Accused of Murder In Roadhouse Stabbing.

LOGAN, W. Va. —(UP)— Two brothers were in Logan county jail today, charged with the murders of two 21-year-old coal workers at Stirrat, 17 miles south of Logan.

The suspects, Frank Fannin, 20, and James Fannin, 35, were arrested yesterday shortly after the fatal stabbing of Delbert Howard and Herbert Nelson during a roadhouse altercation.

FIRING SQUAD

Naval Clubs Urge Execution Of Saboteurs In Telegram.

LIMA—(INS)—Execution of saboteurs by firing squads was advocated today in a telegram to President Roosevelt by delegates to the national convention of navy clubs as they wound up their sessions and headed for homes in 21 states.

PROGRAM SET

30-N Crossing Elimination Ceremony Starts at 10 A. M.

Ceremonies for the opening of $500,000 grade elimination project which will remove two railroad crossings on U. S. Route 30-N in and near Mansfield were being completed today by John G. Routzon, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce.

Routzon said that he had been requested by Vance Grimes, Ashland division engineer of the state highway department, to prepare a public program for the beginning of work on the project tomorrow at 10 a. m.

The secretary said that he had invited city and county officials to take part in the program and that Grimes had arranged for the presence of state highway officials and representatives of the Lombardo Construction company of Cleveland.

The project will include the building of an overhead crossing of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad tracks at West Fourth street, and an underpass beneath the Erie tracks a mile and a half further west.

JUDGE TO RUN

Lausche Enters Primary Contest For Cleveland Mayoralty.

CLEVELAND— (AP) —Judge Frank J. Lausche has announced he will resign from the common pleas bench Aug. 20 to run for mayor of Cleveland at the Sept. 28 primary.

A Democrat and 45 years old, Judge Lausche has held his present office five years. Two Republicans, Mayor Edward Blythin and Arthur H. Day, former Ohio supreme court judge, have announced their candidacies.

18 MEMBERS OF SPY RING FACE CHARGES TODAY

Hoover Calls Band Biggest Espionage Group Since World War Days.

NEW YORK— (INS) —Eighteen members of one of the greatest spy rings in the nation's history were scheduled to be arraigned in Brooklyn federal court today on charges of preying on vital national defense secrets in the service of a foreign power.

Six other members of the espionage band, who were taken into custody by federal agents in New Jersey, Michigan, and Wisconsin, will be brought to New York in the immediate future to be arraigned on charges of conspiring to violate the provisions of the espionage act of June, 1917.

Announcement of the smashing of the spy ring was made by J. Edgar Hoover, chief of the federal bureau of investigation, who disclosed that 29 persons were involved in the espionage work, five of whom are already in prison for other crimes.

Warrants sworn out for arrest of the plotters gave strong indications that U. S. military secrets are already in the hands of a foreign power, the inference being that the foreign power is Nazi Germany.

The warrants charged that "they did communicate and deliver to a foreign power, writing, photographs, blueprints and other subject matter inimical to the defense of the United States."

The suspects — twenty-two of whom are natives of Germany — include three women. Hoover declined to name the foreign nation with which the ring dealt although the known Nazi sympathies of those under arrest indicated that the ring was in the service of Germany.

Hoover termed the arrests the greatest spy roundup since the World war days, recalling that only 19 convictions have been obtained since the espionage act was passed 24 years ago. The act makes it a crime to transmit unlawfully information affecting national defense to a foreign power.

Disclosing that the arrests were made after two years of work by G-men, Hoover asserted:

"This is one of the most active, extensive and vicious groups we have ever had to deal with. Among the individuals taken into custody some are or recently have been employed in

ASKS MEN ABOVE 28 BE DEFERRED

Congressman Says They Should Not Be Drafted Pending Action.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— House majority leader McCormack (D) Mass., today urged draft officials to stop inducting men more than 28 years old until congress has a chance to act on proposals to change the age limits for conscription.

"It is the only fair thing to do," McCormack stated at a press conference. "Everybody knows that congress is virtually unanimously in favor of reducing the maximum draft age from 35 to 28 and Brig. Gen. Louis Hershey, national draft director and the local draft boards should stop inducting those men until we act."

RAID BREMEN BY DAYLIGHT

RAF Stages Bold Attack on Giant Northwest German Naval Base.

(By United Press)

LONDON — Royal Air Force bombers, in one of the boldest daylight raids of the war, flew over northwestern Germany and bombed docks at the big naval base of Bremen, the air ministry said today.

Following heavy night raids that started fires in the shipyards and industrial sections of Bremen and Hamburg, the British bombers returned to the attack in daylight, striking at Bremen, and South Oldenburg, which is west of Bremen and near the Dutch border.

The British offensive against northwest Germany had been interrupted by bad weather Saturday night, after 18 consecutive nights of unprecedented heavy raids. It apparently was resumed

MINE BLASTED

25 Feared Trapped By Huge Pennsylvania Explosion.

INDIANA, Pa.—(U P)—An explosion ripped through an isolated section of Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal company's McIntyre mine today and it was believed 25 miners may be trapped.

R. E. Penfield, chief clerk in the company's production department, said about 40 men were in the affected section at the time of the blast, but 15 had been brought to the surface.

"Some of them were pretty badly burned," he said. "But there are no fatalities as yet." Penfield said the explosion occurred shortly after 11 a. m. (EDT.)

Girl, 11, Hunted 60 Hours, Found In Theater Here

A 60-hour search for an 11-year-old Mansfield girl by police and Boy Scouts who scoured the woods near Liberty Park, was ended last night with her discovery in a downtown theater.

Police had been seeking Vivian Ackinclose, 11, of 174 East Fourth street, since Friday when she was last seen at Liberty Park pool. Her mother called them when the girl failed to show up at her aunt's home on Orange street after her swim at the pool.

Mrs. Ackinclose told police that her daughter left home Friday morning to go swimming and was to stay overnight with her aunt. When the child failed to appear there or return home,

CHARGES WAITED

AKRON —(INS)— Second-degree murder charges today were expected to be placed against Mrs. Fern Westfall, 37-year-old grandmother who admitted to police the fatal shooting of her husband, Preston, 39, after a quarrel over "another woman."

Westfall was a special policeman for the Babcock and Wilcox Co., of nearby Barberton. Mrs. Westfall's plea that she be allowed to attend funeral services today was being considered.

New Heat Wave, Expected To Last Week, Hits Mansfield

A new heat wave, which the weatherman said probably will remain the rest of the week, enveloped the Mansfield area today after the city was cooled briefly by week-end showers.

The forecast was for partly cloudy and continued warm weather tonight and Tuesday with scattered showers Tuesday afternoon.

Moderating from the season's record of 96 degrees Saturday, the mercury backed down to a maximum of 86 Sunday. Light showers during the afternoon kept the temperature at a comfortable level and made last night the first cool night in more than a week.

Lightning killed two persons in Ohio Sunday as storms crossed the northern and central sections of the state. George Pachay, 67, was killed near Warren when lightning struck a tree under which he was standing. Perry Thompson, 45, was killed by lightning near North Baltimore as he watched a barn fire that had been started by a lightning bolt.

Warm, humid weather extends across the country from the Rocky mountains to the Atlantic and it will be several days before it passes eastward, the weatherman said. It was 88 at noon today in Mansfield.

While Mansfield's highest reading yesterday was 10 degrees below Saturday's peak, other Ohio cities had little or no relief from the heat. At Circleville it was 94 Sunday, while Cincinnati reported 93 degrees and Sidney and Columbus 90.

1 Killed, 7 Hurt In Week-End Mishaps In Mansfield Area

The death of a Willard resident in an auto-train collision and the injury of seven other persons in auto accidents over the week-end were reported today. The state's accident toll for the same period stood at 13 dead.

Lester Moore, 25, of Willard, was killed when his auto crashed into the side of a westbound Baltimore and Ohio passenger train on the Steuben road about two and a half miles east of Willard. Paul Fry, 20, North Fairfield, a companion, jumped to safety.

In other accidents, a Greenwich man was struck by an auto in Mansfield and six other persons were injured in collisions near Mansfield.

State highway patrolmen said that Moore was killed when his auto struck the side of the train at an unprotected crossing and was dragged 100 feet. Fry, who had been given a ride from Steuben by Moore, received cuts and bruises when he jumped to safety. He was treated at the Willard Emergency hospital.

Moree had been called up for selective service but was on a 90-

The Secret of the Marshbanks + + +

CHAPTER XXVII

"It's going to be a great adventure," Kelly said, his eyes all for her.

"It's going to be heaven! I can't believe it yet."

They paced along together, facing the wind.

"Oh, I'd forgotten, what with Amy and everything," Cherry said suddenly. "Yesterday when I was in Fran's room, and she was showing me the overnight case that the police had broken open when they got your letters, she went into the bathroom to take a shower and while she was there the wind blew in through her closet—and I went in to close the window—and one of her dressing gowns blew against my hand, and Kelly—she'd wiped a pistol barrel on it! No mistake. Grease and gunpowder, and it was all puckered up. . . ."

"What are you talking about?" the man demanded, interrupting. "Fran had wiped the barrel of a revolver on one of her dresses?"

"One of those negligees she wears. And that was what she had on when she ran downstairs that night—when we'd all heard the judge shouting and we all ran to our doors. The minute I saw it I remembered it, although I'd forgotten it until then."

"Forgotten what?"

"That that negligee was what she had on."

"But someone would have seen her if she'd picked up the gun."

"Not necessarily. We were all so frantic! But, Kelly," Cherry went on impressively, laying a gloved hand on his shoulder, "this is the strange thing. Fran did have that negligee on at first, but when the police and the doctor and all the others got there she didn't. She had on only her nightgown, for she was shivering with cold, and one of the maids went and got her an overcoat from the hall closet."

"Ha!" Kelly said, his brow knitted. "Sure of that?"

"I'm absolutely sure. The first thing I saw when I opened my door was that the halls were lighted, and May and Molly and Helene, the other maid, were coming down from the upper floor, and Fran halfway down the stairs saying it was nothing, that we mustn't get excited, and wearing that negligee. It's etched on my mind," Cherry said seriously, "and it gave me a sort of sick feeling to see it again. But when the doctor and the police got there, she didn't have it on."

"She could have run upstairs, hung it up, and gone down again without anyone's noticing?"

"Easily—it was a madhouse for a while. And nobody was watching or checking."

"She wiped that revolver on the first thing that came handy, a fold of her dressing gown," Kelly formulated it slowly. "And then it occurred to her that the stain would be a hard thing to get rid of. She couldn't count on anything she had to clean it with . . ."

"But Fran never cleans anything anyway. Molly does all that."

"Exactly. And to change and come downstairs in something else might be noticed. But just to wear her thin nightgown was a thing that couldn't be questioned. She thought that out. You didn't see her handle the gun?"

"I didn't see anything but the judge."

"She grabbed that gun instinctively and cleaned it before she realized that if those smudges were discovered matters would be worse than ever," Kelly said. "So she took the boldest course and as it turned out the safest one. We're not far from Fisherman's Wharf, Cherry, how about an oyster stew?"

"Oh, Kelly, I'm starving!" She laughed her old joyous laugh as he caught her arm tightly in his, and they went along together at a walk that was almost a run.

The restaurant was as plain as coarse linen and cheap chairs could make it, but the fragrance of the boiling crab kettles outside scented the place appetizingly. There were no other lunchers today; with the sudden return of the storm the place was deserted, and Cherry and Kelly knew they could loiter over their thick crackers, their creamy boiling-hot stews, their platter of tiny sweet shrimps, as long as they liked.

"Honestly, Kelly, is there one chance in the world Fran did it?" the girl presently said.

"I don't think so. I'd swear she didn't have the nerve. But it strikes me—it's seemed to me all along—that her position is that of someone who knows something, or thinks she does; she's protecting someone. But who? Amy? The old lady? I don't know . . . Here are our oysters."

"It's just one o'clock," Cherry said, "and I think I'll telephone home that I'm not coming. Martin keeps things waiting until after two if he expects us."

When she came back she sank into her chair, gripping the table, trying to speak.

"Cherry, what is it? What's the matter?" Kelly stammered, catching at her hands.

"It was Mullins," she whispered. "They want us to come straight home. She said — she and Jud had quarreled—over you. Fran has confessed!"

* * *

When they went out onto the wharf looking for a taxi, Cherry held Kelly's hand tightly.

"Fran's confessed, eh?" he said more than once. "I wonder what that means? Why does she drag me in? She knows darned well that whatever she's up to I'm not in it."

"But—but she could say you were!"

"Yes, but that's not enough."

"When I telephoned, thinking that I'd get Martin or Molly, and just leave a message," Cherry explained, "it was one of the police, and he asked if you and I would return to the house immediately. He said, 'We have here Mrs. Marshbanks' signed confession, and we would like to question Mr. Coates.' He said, 'The quarrel between Mr. and Mrs. Marshbanks was about Mr. Coates.' Kelly," Cherry finished, frantic with apprehension, "couldn't you just—go away? I mean, just get on a train and go to Canada or somewhere?"

"Fran advised me to get out,' Kelly told her. "You're shivering, Marchioness," he added concernedly. "Darn it, you oughtn't to have sat still in those wet clothes! Yes." he resumed, still in a puzzled manner, "Fran urged me this morning to run for it while there was time. Run from what? I don't know anything about Jud Marshbanks' death."

"But sometimes they do accuse innocent men, Kelly, and convict them, too!"

"Not on what they've got against me!"

"Kelly," she said, when they had signaled a cruising taxi and were on their way, "promise me something."

"Anything," he said.

"Promise me that no matter what happens now, no matter how tangled things get, you and I are—forever and eternally—bound to each other!"

"Why, Marchioness," Kelly said tenderly, "Don't cry, my dear. You're making me cry. D'you suppose there'd ever be anyone else but you? And you needn't worry about me," he assured her. "For one thing, if Fran had quarreled with Jud that night, and had picked up his revolver in a rage and fired at him, she'd have been the first to confess."

"She did wipe off that pistol some time or other," Cherry reminded him.

"I know she did. Oh, there's a lot that can't be explained," Kelly conceded. "But it's possible, of course, even if it's not likely, that when she went downstairs that night the quarrel between him and someone else was still going on. She knows more than she'll say; I'm sure of that. Anyway, if Fran had done it, she's smart enough to know that her safest way out was telling everyone, pleading impulse, excitement, accident. Accident!" Kelly interrupted himself to exclaim, struck with the idea. "It was his gun. He was showing it to her. it went off in her hands."

"It wouldn't go off ten feet away," Cherry objected. "And if she was going to confess today, why didn't she do it before?"

"Because," Kelly said, scowling and thoughtful, "something's changed her mind."

"We're nearly home," Cherry said, "and do you promise me, Kelly, you promise me that you'll let me stand by you—you'll not put me out—you'll realize that the only thing in my life — the only happiness, will be to be near you, and to comfort you if I can?" Cherry pleaded, her eyes brimming again.

"Why, my darling, my darling," he said, my life is your life now. Here we are!" he finished abruptly, as the cab drew up at the imposing Marshbanks doorway. "Now we'll try to see what all this is about."

He felt her cold fingers gripping his as they went up the steps. Cheerfully he advised her to go straight upstairs, but she followed him to the library.

There were four officers there now, instead of the usual one or two; Fran was there, too, silent, very pale, tragic-looking, with her white skin and raven-black hair.

"I had to tell them, Kelly," she said breathlessly, apologetically. "I'm sorry. I thought for a while that we could hide it. But I had to tell."

"You go upstairs and get into dry things," Kelly said to Cherry. "No use your catching pneumonia."

He sat down at the desk, and Cherry reluctantly went away. May was waiting for her in the hall and not only personally managed the hot bath but descended afterward to the kitchen for tea and toast.

"If you aren't in for flu, I'll miss my guess!" said May.

When she came upstairs with the tray, it was to ask Cherry if she would have her little mid-afternoon meal in old Mrs. Marshbanks' room. "She don't feel very good and she asked if you wasn't too tired would come in and see her."

"Well, of course," Cherry said. Feeling achy and dull, she was not only vaguely flattered by the proposal, but she was glad of any company on this dreadful afternoon.

Cherry found her grandmother restless and uneasy. But to Cherry's great relief she seemed disinclined to speak of the affairs of the moment. Cherry took the cue, and they discussed California's amazing climate and Mrs. Marshbanks' first impressions of it when she had come to the west a bride half a century earlier . . .

The clock struck four. The old woman looked across at her companion, her voice sounded oddly firmer and clear in the silence.

"Judson was an honest man," she said, "but he never was fair to his brother. Frederick—Frederick was impulsive. I loved both my sons; it was never true that I loved Fred better. But he needed me more than Judson did. You—you are like him."

GERMANS REACH MOSCOW ROAD, CAPTURE LWOW

The Berlin radio announced the occupation of Luck, 100 miles northwest of Lwow, but this could not be confirmed. The radio, in a news broadcast in Spanish, further claimed that Nazi troops had occupied Minsk.

The spokesman said Minsk, 20 miles inside the old Russian frontier, was seriously menaced by German armored divisions and that Nazi motorized units had seized control of the head of the Minsk Moscow motor highway.

West of Minsk, in the Bialystok sector of old Poland, the Germans declared two Soviet armies were trapped. Military sources in Vichy heard the two armies numbered 400,000 men, but they gave them a chance to break through.

By contrast, Russian military dispatches asserted that advance German panzer forces in the Minsk area had been trapped by Soviet counter-attacks.

The Russians conceded that German columns had penetrated into Lithuania a third of the way to Leningrad and across Poland almost a third of the way to Moscow.

On the Viipuri front, the Russians said, 300 Nazis were killed in a single assault and the entire German landing party put ashore near Viipuri was wiped out.

France broke off diplomatic relations with Russia this morning with the official explanation that "Soviet diplomatic and consular agents in France were carrying out activities against the public order and security of the state."

It was the first time France had reached an open break against any of Germany's enemies.

As the second week of fighting on the eastern front began amid a barrage of special German high command announcements detailing Nazi successes thus far, Finland and Slovakia pitched in actively against Russia at various points along the far-flung front.

Cannon blazed as the Finns, heeding an appeal from Field Marshal Baron Carl Gustaf Mannerheim to follow him in a "holy war" against the Russians, cast off their policy of passive resistance.

The Slovak high command declared that the forces of the tiny state, which is all Adolf Hitler left of Czecho-Slovakia, had driven deep into Soviet territory to seize prisoners and material.

The German high command, in one of a series of 12 communiques issued at intervals over a four and a half hour period yesterday, claimed that 2,233 Russian tanks, 4,107 Russian planes and 1,297 Russian armored cars had been destroyed during the first week of war; that 40,000 Russian prisoners and 600 big guns had been captured. All this at a cost of 150 German planes.

The Red army called these claims "boastful humbug" and gave its own figures: 2,500 German tanks destroyed to 900 Russian, 1,500 German planes destroyed to 850 Russian; 30,000 German prisoners taken to 15,000 Russian.

"New and great success is in preparation," the German high command declared.

The Syrian campaign entered its fourth week with Allied forces reported pushing toward Homs as Vichy troops apparently sought to hold the core of the Lebanon area from Beirut to Tripoli.

The home of General Henri Dentz, Vichy commander in the Levant, was reported attacked by British bombers and five members of his guard were killed and four wounded. The general was not at home.

British Middle East headquarters reported that British troops had completed the encirclement of Palmyra, French stronghold in the heart of the Syrian desert.

In the Damascus and coastal sectors, the British tallied "further advances."

The French said British attacks had been beaten off with heavy losses all along the Syrian front, with the fiercest action raging on the road from British-captured Damascus to Beirut, capital of Lebanon.

In Ankara, Turkish sources predicted that Turkey's reply to French appeals for cooperation in the defense of Syria would sidestep any possibility of involvement in the war.

The Turks declared that under no circumstances would the Ankara government permit France to send war supplies or troops across Turkish soil to reinforce the hard-driven defenders of France's Middle East mandates.

In the western air war, RAF bombers renewed the attack on Germany after bad weather Saturday night had interrupted their series of 17 straight night assaults in a row. The London air ministry reported that RAF bombs started "very large fires" and inflicted "great damage" at the ports of Hamburg and Emden, and that the raiders also pounded Bremerhaven, Emden, and Den Helder in the Netherlands. Eleven RAF planes were acknowledged lost.

The Germans said 13 British bombers were shot down last night over northwestern Germany.

The British said one German raider was shot down in light nocturnal assaults on England.

In the respite granted by the German attack on Russia, England indicated it hoped to make hay. Lord Beaverbrook, minister of state, was made minister of supply with wide responsibility for making war goods in all Britain's factories.

The AAR also had repercussions in the western hemisphere as the FBI arrested 29 persons, including 22 natives of Germany, it had shadowed for two years on charges of espionage.

DID NAZIS MAKE OFFER BY HESS?

Writers Assert Collaboration Plan Offered Britain Before Red Attack.

but he was also known for his hatred of Communism. And before the war he had had contacts with the British nobility.

So Hess, not flying alone, but accompanied by several guiding planes; and not taking off from central Germany as reported, but from Norway, made his dramatic descent on the estate of the Scotch Duke of Hamilton.

The message brought by Hess in substance was as follows:

(1) Britain and Germany would enter a coalition as the chief partners in a new Axis; (2) Italy would be placated with some minor possessions of France, which would be stripped of its empire; (3) Germany would retain a free hand on the whole of the Continent, with Britain helping to establish that free hand by joining Germany in conquering Russia.

The British government's answer was to incarcerate Hess and immediately notify Washington and Moscow of the plan.

The subsequent chain of events is history. Darlan and Laval were among the first to get wind of the scheme, and rushed to Hitler offering complete "collaboration." This drew withering denunciations from President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Hull.

Britain, which for months had been trying to make up its mind to attack in Syria, launched an offensive with Free French forces to seize this strategically vital region. Then on June 15, British Intelligence got wind of quiet German withdrawals of air and other forces from French bases. This was why the British took the initiative in their continuous day and night bombing raids wreaking havoc on key German centers.

Fearful of attack and anxious to appease in all directions, Moscow abandoned its stiff-necked coolness to Japan and hurriedly signed a pact in order to ensure at least temporary tranquillity on its eastern border. Simultaneously Stalin abandoned his traditional behind-the-scenes role and actively assumed the reins as premier of Russia. Russia began massing 160 divisions on its western borders.

It was at this time that Ambassador John Winant returned to the U. S. A. at the request of Prime Minister Churchill in order to give President Roosevelt a complete fill-in and to deliver categoric assurances from Churchill that Britain will never make peace with Hitler.

Note — The British government was so sure Hitler would attack Russia that Churchill was able to prepare and deliver his historic radio address only 18 hours after Hitler invaded Russia.

Report Progress Towards Kiev

LONDON —(INS)— British military authorities said today that German forces advancing against Kiev in the Soviet Ukraine "undoubtedly have made considerable progress" and have covered nearly 180 miles.

They said the next two or three days will be important in judging the depth to which the Germans will be able to penetrate into the Ukraine and also to judge whether their pincer attack is succeeding.

British military officials said they do not believe the Stalin line can be penetrated deeply.

France Severs Soviet Relations

VICHY, Unoccupied France — (AP) — France severed relations with Soviet Russia today and it was learned that at least 200 persons accredited to Russian diplomatic and consular services have been held for questioning.

Russian men and women who were held were concentrated in the stadium outside Vichy where only yesterday Chief of State Marshal Petain gave a flag to the French youth labor camps.

For 24 hours before the decision to break relations with Moscow, all roads leading to and from Vichy were heavily guarded.

As soon as the break became known, the Russians informed the United States embassy. It was not yet known who will take over Russian interests in France but it was expected to be Sweden.

plants manufacturing equipment vital to the national defense.

"Others have served until very recently aboard American-flag vessels engaged in trans-Atlantic and coastwise travel and on trans-Atlantic clipper planes."

Efforts to obtain and transmit data on U. S. rearmament, manufacture of aircraft and other munitions of war, marked the chief interest of the ring. Ship movements, industrial and commercial developments, also drew their attention.

A Manhattan restaurant — the "Little Casino" on East 85th street —was the central meeting place and a sort of clearing house for the spies, Hoover said. The restaurant proprietor, Richard Eichenlaub, 36, was one of those under arrest.

The espionage agents operated as a group, Hoover asserted. "They may not have been completely known to each other, but the ring functioned as a unit," he said. The information they gathered was relayed to Europe by courier and radio.

The FBI chief said his bureau had been on their trail for two years, but had not sprung their trap until all the higher-ups had been identified. Asked if the group's operations had harmed the U. S. Hoover said he could not comment on material that would come before the grand jury.

Characterized by Hoover as a leading figure in the ring was Frederick Joubert Duquesne, 63, of New York City.

"This man has been a spy for 40 years," Hoover said. "He was active in the Boer war and was charged with murder in the World war sinking of the British ship Tennyson in 1918."

The ramifications of the ring were disclosed by the occupations of the members, Hoover said.

Members of the ring have been employed by the German consulate in New York, the German library of information, the Germania Book and Specialty company, the Sperry Gyroscope company—manufacturers of the secret American bomb sight — the United States Steamship lines, Westinghouse Electric, Bendix aviation and Pan American Airways. One man was a representative for the Ford and Chrysler companies abroad.

(At Berlin the official news agency said 11 British bombers were shot down by German night fighters over the north German coastal area last night. It said British bombs badly damaged a residential district, hitting two hospitals and killing or wounding several civilians.)

Sunday afternoon British fighting planes made another of their regular sweeps along the northern French coast without encountering any German planes and returned to their bases without incident, the air ministry said.

For the week ended June 28, according to the air ministry, 183 German planes were shot down in western Europe and the middle east, a record for any week this year, and if Russian claims were taken into account, the German losses probably exceeded 500 planes, it was said studying the piano at the age of seven, had not played publicly since the start of the present war in 1939, which began with the German invasion of Poland. "I simply could not stand it any more," he explained.

Before his hands grew too feeble for the rigors of the concert tour, Paderewski had played the piano for more than 60 years and had earned more than $10,000,000—much of which he gave to Poland.

He sailed for Europe in 1939 and returned late in 1940 to spend his last days in the United States, a country which he held in esteem only second to that of Poland.

Paderewski always called himself "a musician second—first a Pole," and at the outset of the World war he devoted his time and wealth to Poland's cause. With the Allied victory, Paderewski plunged into the work of organizing the nation of which he became premier in 1919. He resigned in 1921.

NEW LUNG TOO SMALL FOR SNITE

'Boiler Kid' Returns to Home After Tests Fail.

DAYTON—(U.P.)—Fred Snite, jr., "the man in the iron lung," returned to his home at River Forest, Ill., today after unsuccessful tests with a new light weight plastic portable respirator.

The new respirator was found to be too small for the infantile paralysis victim who came here last week to try it out.

The scientists said they would make a larger size in their Dayton laboratory and Snite will come back in a month or two for another "fitting."

CINCY LAUNCHES OPERA SEASON

High School Students Spark Drive For $15,000 to Run Event.

CINCINNATI—(AP)—The Queen City's "zoo" opera has entered a six-weeks program which two months ago was near abandonment. A group of "friends of the summer opera"—most of them high school youngsters—sparked a fund-raising campaign which in a few whirlwind weeks got the $15,000 opera promoters deemed a necessary guarantee.

And there was a predominance of youth in the audience of 3,050 who disdained early evening showers to watch America's only summer opera open last night in the zoo park.

Agitation in Washington to retain the camp at the forest for maintenance purposes and fire protection was started more than a week ago by the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce which enlisted the aid of chambers and civic organizations in surrounding towns in petitioning Congressman J. Harry McGregor and Senators Robert A. Taft and Harold Burton. Among those towns were Ashland, Mt. Vernon, Wooster and Loudonville.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, JUNE 30, 1941.

The human race seems less so than usual just now.

What statesmen and nations need most today is power to decide and act.

When an ordinary person tries to understand Hitler's explanation of why he attacks another harmless country, reason totters.

The Edge of Things

IT IS A patriotic saying in this country, and on the whole a true one, that "partisanship stops at the water's edge." We have lapsed somewhat from this ideal in the last year or two. It has been said and hoped, by foreign enemies who do not know or understand us, that a stern test would find us divided. Now that the test comes, how about it?

If we may judge by the last war, naturalized Americans and older Americans of strong racial ties will "come clean." There will be some grumbling. There may be smoldering resentment among some groups. But a firm governmental policy and a firm public insistence that every American of whatever origin shall do his duty should bring acquiescence and unity.

Unity has been lately what this country needed most. Not a blind acceptance of everything American; for even the oldest of Americans may have their faults and shortcomings, and we live by discussion and change and adaptation. But we have needed greatly, in these recent years, a more general rebirth of the American spirit and a fusing of loyalties, among old Americans and new ones.

As the clouds darken around this country and hemisphere, perhaps we shall find ourselves merging into a Newer America greater than the old. Not to expect this would be not to have faith in humanity, in intelligence, in mere self-interest. For here we are all in the same boat, in a stormy sea; and it would be sheer dumbness, not to say disloyalty, if any of us tried to sink the boat.

The Good Old Bike

THE vitality of cycling, as a popular sport, continues to surprise old-timers. Not only have automobiles and motorcycles failed to drive it out, but it is probably stronger today than ever before.

And it isn't only the boys and girls who keep the sport alive. Latterly there has been a revival of cycling enthusiasm among grown-ups. There are clubs formed for adults on a growing scale, with week-end rides and other events, and use of the Youth Hostel facilities.

This has been a natural peace-time growth, but the movement is obviously helped lately by the rearmament program and the threatened rise in the cost and operation of automobiles. But mostly it seems to arise from a natural appreciation of the bicycle itself as a vehicle for healthful sport.

Eggs for Soldiers

THERE may be some connection between two news items appearing on the same day recently. "U. S. Army Gains Ten Million Pounds" and "Egg Production Gains as Prices Soar to New Peak" were the two headlines.

The first story, based on a report of the Quartermaster Corps, said that new soldiers gained an average of 10 pounds apiece in their first three weeks in the army. Scientific diet was credited for part of this gain. "Our aim," the report stated, "is to provide fruit every day, usually for breakfast, cereals, one egg per man per day, milk, vegetables, meat and cheese."

American hens, according to the other story, are responding to this defense demand. The department of agriculture's latest summary of the egg situation forecasts an increase of 5 to 10 per cent in the number of laying hens in this country by January, 1942. On the first of June, this year, about 8 per cent more young chickens were in the flocks of laying hens than on June 1 a year ago.

Furthermore, egg production for the first five months of 1941 was a little more than 3 per cent larger than it was during the same period of 1940. Total production next fall and winter may be the largest on record for that season. Ordinarily that would mean a drop in price rather than a rise, but the men in the defense forces are probably eating more eggs than they ate in civilian life, and that's all to the good.

Wild Critics

A REPRESENTATIVE of the group calling itself the "America First Committee" (which some of its critics would call the "America Last Committee") seems to know an awful lot of things about the newspaper business that ain't so.

He tells the public that the American press has been conducting, for five years, a "war of nerves" which "has misled and baffled our people so as to make them doubt their ability to defend their country."

The press of this country, which is generally considered the freest and most intelligent collector and purveyor of news in the world, doesn't know anything about a war of nerves, except the one now being conducted by the Nazis and by a lot of Communists professing to represent American labor. The America First Committee may be too far up in the clouds to observe that.

The alarmist further urges the public to "read between the lines of the newspapers," to be "cautious about accepting facts from anonymous sources" and to "weigh allegations from accredited sources."

That is O. K. with the press. If the suspicious investigators go about their quest honestly, and take half the pains that are taken habitually by newspaper reporters and editors to check news sources and eliminate error, they will probably find themselves throwing most of their own propaganda into the wastebasket.

Worth Preventing

A LIST of the booty Hitler might get out of European Russia if he conquered it would include the coal and iron of the Don river basin, the big power plant (American built) at Dnepropetrovsk, the oil fields of the Caucasus, the grain of the Ukraine, and the timber of Karelia.

Before he gets them he has to win a war and do a gigantic task of organizing. If there's enough interference in various places and of various kinds, it may take him a long time to get full value from such resources. Otherwise—it's darker days for all of us, everywhere.

JAPAN ON THE MARCH, TOO

Analyzing Pro-Germans In U. S.

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — In nearly every community, and Washington, D. C., is no exception, there are a few people who rank fairly high in business success, who are not only outspokenly against the U. S. becoming involved in the war, but actually against any aid whatever to Britain. They usually base their argument for this last on the idea that this country is pretty nearly defenseless, and that it is therefore almost criminal to send fighting planes and guns and tanks to Britain when we might soon be so sorely needing them ourselves.

Usually, if you know them well enough, and press them strongly enough in an argument, you will discover, to your own satisfaction at least, that they want Germany to beat Britain.

* * *

This type of person in question is not of German descent. There is no mystery about the racial pride which impells third and even fourth generation Germans to glory in the achievement of German arms and resourcefulness. Nor is the type of Irish descent, inheriting an age old hate of England. No, these particular individuals are almost invariably of families that have been in this country for many generations, and in most instances are of English descent!

There is no attempt here to draw a pattern, or to prove any particular subversive activity. There may be, but the writer has discovered nothing resembling proof of it. There are several such persons in Washington who happen to be among the writer's old friends. Mentioning this peculiar mental slant of these individuals to persons from other cities invarably brings out the fact that no matter what city the visitor comes from there are such individuals in his circle of friends back home.

Perhaps the most curious common denominator of all in these cases is that these pro-German (for that is the simple fact about it) Americans are individuals who have been regarded for years by their friends as "rebels."

Meaning that they have, all their lives, been outspoken in their criticisms of what might be termed the established order. Particularly critical of who ever happened to be top dog in any particular line in their community—the "leading banker," "leading lawyer" or whatever.

* * *

In Washington they are terribly against ANY administration that is in power. This is true of these "rebels" in other cities too, but in the other cities they have local mayors or councils to be against, not to mention state governments.

They are usually the persons who have voiced criticisms which many others have felt, but they are always the ones who have given voice to these criticisms so loudly that they frequently gave great satisfaction to the Milquetoasts who suffered in silence.

In short these "rebels" would seem to be a natural development in the particular kind of government which we have enjoyed in the United States. They can vent their spleen here in perfect safety, even when they go against overwhelming majorities.

The difficult thing to understand is how anyone who enjoys such rebellious activities could find anything to approve in the present government of Germany—how he could wish to see the British government, which has always virtually encouraged this form of rebellion, go down—how he could wish to see all of Europe overrun by Gestapos which would put this particular kind of rebel in a concentration camp.

The writer would enormously appreciate the answer to this, if any reader knows it!

Health and Diet

What to Do for Heat Exhaustion.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

ANY day now about this time of year the man in the street may be called on to perform emergency treatment for somebody who is overcome with heat exhaustion or sunstroke.

Undoubtedly many deaths reported during hot weather as being due to heat stroke are really the result of apoplexy or heart attacks. In cold weather they are ascribed to their proper cause, but in hot weather everything is blamed on the sun and the humidity. Excessive heat also is not borne well by those with high blood pressure and undoubtedly many apoplexies are brought on by the state of the weather.

A distinction is made between heat exhaustion and sunstroke or heat stroke. In heat exhaustion there is a condition of shock, lowered temperature, cold clammy skin, profuse perspiration, weakness and dizziness, but rarely loss of consciousness.

In heat stroke or sun stroke the essential feature is a complete upset of the temperature regulating mechanism of the body. Whatever centers in the brain control perspiration and the other factors in this mechanism become paralyzed and the body temperature rises to astonishing heights—as much as 109 degrees Fahrenheit. The skin is flushed, hot and dry, and unconsciousness is the rule.

Premonitory symptoms are nausea and dizziness and anyone who feels these symptoms on a hot day should apply ice or cold water to the skin and get in the shade and lie down.

Treatment will depend upon which type of heat depression you are dealing with. There is nothing very complicated about it — simply common sense. If a person is cold, clammy, weak and obviously shocked he should be treated by rest and warmth to overcome the shock. If he is thirsty give him water, a little at a time, not too cold. If there is some salt handy put that in the water.

The doctor will give him fluids by vein when he gets him to the hospital and also sodium bicarbonate to overcome his acidosis, so it's not imperative to get fluids into him, but give him plenty of rest and protect him from the person who comes along and who knows just what to do—such as raise his head, or roll him over, or raise his arms up and down.

The person whose skin is hot and dry to the touch, who is unconscious and who has a bounding pulse should be treated by ice and water dashed on the body. Never mind about getting his clothes off. Throw a bucket of water over him with a good deal of force. The impact of the water does as much good as the water itself.

After the body is wet fan him. The evaporation of one gram of water produces seven times as much cooling as the use of one gram of ice rubbed on the skin. The great indication is to reduce the temperature.

One-Minute Test.

1. What is long sauce?
2. Can the American secretary of state recognize a foreign country without consent of congress?
3. How many stars are there in the Southern Cross?

Words of Wisdom.

If you believe in fate, believe in it, at least, for your good.—Emerson.

Hints on Etiquette.

The invitation to the church wedding usually needs no acknowledgement other than your presence at the church.

One-Minute Test Answers.

1. Vegetables such as beets, carrots, parsnips, etc., as distinguished from the shorter vegetables called short sauce.
2. This is expressly a part of the executive function conferred upon the president by the constitution, and the secretary of state, on behalf of the president, may accord recognition without recourse to congress.
3. Four.

Words of the Wise

Misery is caused for the most part not by a heavy crush of disaster, but by the corrosion of less visible evils, which canker enjoyment and undermine security. The visit of an invader is necessarily rare, but domestic animosities allow no cessation.—Dr. S. Johnson.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

U. S. Expects Soviet Retreat Hopes They Keep Army Intact

—By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—No phase of this war is being more carefully studied by U. S. military experts than the Russo-German, yet in no battle area has the War department been so handicapped for adequate information.

No U. S. military observers have been permitted at the front with either the Russians or the Germans, so all they can do is wait in Moscow and Berlin and accept the stereotyped statements handed them by German-Russian military leaders.

Army strategists in Washington, however, have worked out their ideas on how the Russians should conduct their campaign.

And here is the U. S. Army's strategy:

They would have the Russians follow the same tactics as the Union armies during the U. S. Civil war. That war saw some of the most brilliant strategy in military history. But although General Lee outfought the North and gained far more territory, he was never able to disrupt the Northern army. It remained intact.

Thus Lee always faced the threat of the Northern forces bouncing right back at him. And Washington is hoping that Stalin's troops will do the same.

It is probable that the Russians cannot hold too long against well-organized panzers. But even if they inflict terrific punishment, and fall back very slowly, it might delay action until the rainy season starts in the fall; by which time the United States will be turning out a real arsenal.

* * *

Napoleon's Lesson.

U. S. strategists also are hoping the Red army will take a leaf from the defeat of Napoleon and destroy everything in the path of the Germans — every barn, bridge, road and rail line. Even the wheat should be burned in the fields, though this is difficult, since Hitler carefully chose a period before the wheat was ripe and before it could be burned.

It was this destruction of everything in the path of Napoleon's army which really defeated him. But in all previous Nazi victories, their armies have advanced so rapidly that the enemy had no time to destroy anything. The thrifty French hesitated to destroy their buildings, their crops, their well-paved roads, but the less thrifty Russians probably will not hesitate.

U. S. strategists are certain Hitler will take the Ukraine and the areas around Leningrad within a short time. However, if the Soviet army is able to fall back beyond those areas, and can keep its forces intact, then Hitler will never be able to turn his back on Russia.

At present, betting among Washington military experts is that after some of the toughest fighting this war has seen the Russians will be pushed back, in some cases close to the Ural mountains. There are no bets at present regarding the eventual surrender of the Russian army.

* * *

Vice President's Baseball.

Vice President Henry Wallace slammed out two hits in the softball game between the "Statesmen," team of Senate and House members, and the "Nine Old Men," Lowell Thomas' squad of writers and celebrities. However, the VP's headwork wouldn't bring any big league scouts beating a path to his door.

Wallace was playing shortstop for the "Statesmen" in the second inning when Walter Johnson, former mound star who was pitching for the "Nine Old Men," came to bat and sent a slow grounder down the third base line. In his anxiety to throw Johnson out, the Vice President forgot all about young Representative Gordon Canfield of New Jersey, at third base, who was set to field the ball.

When the dust cleared, Wallace and Canfield were sprawled on the ground, the ball in left field and Johnson safe on first.

Apologizing profusely to Canfield, Wallace crept back to his own playing territory to the accompaniment of loud hoots from colleagues in the grandstand.

* * *

Tanks.

In the opinion of U. S. Army chiefs, poring over their pin-marked maps in the War College, the outcome of the Russo-German war will be decided by the armored tank. The fate of Europe, and perhaps the world, is being hammered out by the opposing swarms of these deadly monsters.

Accurate data on tank strength are one of the most vital items of military information. Regarding German strength, U. S. Intelligence has compiled what they believe is an accurate picture of a very formidable force, numbering close to 7,000 small, medium and heavy tanks.

At the time the Nazis swept through the Lowlands and France, they had 16 armored divisions, with about 400 tanks per division—a total of 6,400. Since then, the Germans have added four more armored divisions, which they call "Libyan Divisions." These are operating in North Africa and their tank strength is considerably less than the other divisions, probably not more than 150 per division.

* * *

U. S. Going Places.

In tank production capacity, Nazi might is equally formidable. This much is definitely known: Germany has a monthly output capable for replenishing "normal" battle losses, estimated at 17½ per cent per division, for three or four divisions—about 270 tanks. In addition, the Germans have been building up a reserve of 167 tanks a month.

For military reasons, U. S. tank production cannot be disclosed.

However, this much can be stated: By this time next year we will be turning out enough tanks of all types per month to equip at least two divisions, superior in size and firepower to the most powerful in the world.

So far tank contracts total $230,000,000, divided about equally between light and medium vehicles. Pilot models for giant heavy tanks are in the experimental stage. U. S. tanks so far produced have the strongest armor in use and are so constructed as to present no flat surface anywhere to the enemy.

* * *

Radio's Blackout.

Loudest squawker about the freedom of the other has been Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana.

When a radio station in Philadelphia failed to carry a Lindbergh broadcast, Wheeler went so far as to propose that its license be rescinded. And as chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce committee, Wheeler keeps the radio networks in a constant dither. In fact, some radio chains will scarcely let an unfavorable word about Wheeler be said over the air.

In view of this, it is ironic that the first real radio blackout occurred in Wheeler's home state, when Walter Winchell's popular, patriotic Sunday night program was banned from the air.

Furthermore, the three Montana stations which banned Winchell are operated by Ed Craney and Barclay Craighead, two of Senator Wheeler's close associates.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — Around Capital town:

Just why the idea should pop up at this late date nobody seems to know, but congress is asking for a survey of the possibilities of having all government employes now using government-owned cars in Washington use taxis instead. Washington taxi fares are the cheapest of any in the larger cities of the country and congress leaders back of the move are convinced the government could save thousands every year by junking all errand-buggies here and letting the gentlemen and hirelings in the federal departments and agencies hail the cabbies. There is hardly a government building in the district (barring the weather bureau and the bureau of standards) that isn't within a 20-cent taxi ride of the Capitol or of any other government building. If the idea goes over, only the executives will ride in federal cars. Before it does, I'd like to testify before the investigating committee with this one caution: It may work fine on sunny days, but just try to find a cab at any price during a storm.

* * *

The office space problem here is reaching the point where government workers are turning loose a lot of humor on it. The most recent came out of the war department the other day in an office where civilian clerks already were rubbing elbows or shoulder blades. An electrician turned up there and started chiseling a square space out of the wall for an electric fan. The office wag wanted to know: "What are you doing, fellow — making room for another clerk?"

* * *

The story is that the navy couldn't take it. The army had its Jimmy Stewart. The marine corps had its Jimmy Roosevelt. And what did the navy have? Just a bunch of officers. So they got out the lists and culled them well and called up naval reserve Lieut. Robert Montgomery. There is even a report that the navy followed up its announcement that Bob was reporting for duty by notes to the other two services saying: "Ah, yah, we got one, too."

* * *

The Russo-German war has resulted in much verbal floundering here, but a lot of the unofficial comment follows the trend of that of the commerce department worker who was standing before a newsstand on which were prominently displayed two of the city's dailies. The headline of one read: "Russians Claim 5,000 Nazi Prisoners." The headline of the other: "Nazis Drive Deep Into Russian Territory." The C. D. man grinned and said: "These are great days, no matter what paper you read."

* * *

Good news for the cotton farmers: The United States Housing authority reports that it now is using about a bale of cotton to a house in most of its low-cost housing projects. Chemically treated or woven, it is being used in roofings, wall surfaces and wall and ceiling insulations, to mention only a few spots.

Dr. Harry Oberholser, 71 years old, is retiring from the fish and wildlife service. In the realm of science, the doctor is internationally known as one of the nation's great ornithologists and many will be sorry to see him leave active service. His departure, however, will be hailed joyfully by a gentry not quite so scientific. For a generation, at least, Doctor Oberholser has been the nemesis of wild duck bootleggers. Many a duck salesman or illegal commercial hunter has paid his fine or had his days in jail because the Doctor, on the witness stand, could identify as the whole truth and nothing but the truth that a handful of bones or a couple of pinfeathers came from a bird the killing or sale of which was illegal.

A Farmer's Diary

Bell Foundry

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

OUR neighboring village to the south is the location of an old bell foundry. It makes church bells and fire bells and dinner bells for farmsteads. Every time I passed it I planned to stop—the other day I did so.

"How long has the company been in business?" I asked a young man who had kindly offered to show me around.

"More than 100 years. At first it made novelties for peddler salesmen—about 66 years ago it began making bells. Now it is the largest factory of its kind—in the world.

He introduced me to an old man who had worked at the job of making bells for almost half a century. "When I first came here," the veteran suggested, "we shipped out bells by the carload. But a bell lasts more than a lifetime. Business isn't so good any more. This country isn't building churches and town halls and fire stations so fast now."

"What about wedding bells?" I asked.

"We don't make 'em. Weddings used to be more serious occasions than they are now. People stayed married longer . . . but here you see mission bells, fire bells and chapel bells that will go to all parts of the world. The material used in them is made by a secret process. All bells used to be of copper or tin. This new material has a better timbre and wears longer than the other metals did. Fifty workmen are employed now—we make a few other things, too."

It was Wednesday evening. As I drove toward home the sun had set and far across the hills I heard the faint sweet tones of a prayer-meeting bell in some country church. Angelus of free America, I thought—old and most stirring music of all time—the peal of bells. High in the steeple they used to toll mournfully by day or night the years of one who had passed away in our neighborhood. Day in and day out they called the children to the country schools. In times of flood or fire they clanged the alarm to all the countryside. At every mealtime, on the farm, the teams knew the sound of their own farmhouse bell.

I hope that, even in these air-minded, electric times, the old bell foundry will not be abandoned, but will continue to send out bells to serve and save the world.

DEFENSE TWINS ADDED TO LIST OF AGENCIES

Stenographers Can't Keep Up With New Alphabet Groups Over Nation.

WASHINGTON— (SNS) —The defense twins, the I M. P. S. and the O. P. A. C. S are the latest additions to the capital's fast-growing family of alphabet agencies

IMPS is the abbreviation for Industrial Mobilization Plans, and OPACS stands for the Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply. Both are new E. D. A's, or emergency defense agencies.

The U S I S, or United States Information Service, says alphabet agencies—both governmental and "private" ones not connected with the government—are becoming so numerous that in many instances the same group of initials stands for several different things

For instance, the C C. C. may mean Civilian Conservation Corps or Commodity Credit Corporation; D. A. R, may stand for Daughters of the American Revolution, Defense Aid Reports, or Division of American Republics

The U. S. O, or United Service Organization, is one of the non-government groupings

An official of the USIS who teaches a class in naturalization to immigrants in her spare time said she was grooming a group of prospective citizens in the meaning of current abbreviations one night recently when she asked who could tell what the letters R F. D. stood for

A Polish refugee held up her hand and proudly declared that the letters stood for "Franklin Felano Doosevelt"

Although new alphabet agencies are being created faster than the average man can keep up with them, the USIS says the mortality rate of such agencies also is high

The latest government manual just published lists approximately 220 executive agencies and functions of the federal government that have been "abolished, transferred, grouped, or terminated subsequent to March 4, 1933"

This list does not include a large number of early alphabet agencies like the C W. A, (Civil Works Organization,) F. E. R. A. (Federal Emergency Relief Administration), and N I R. A. (National Industrial Recovery Administration).

Many requests have been made for a complete list of all the alphabet agencies and what they mean. USIS officials say it would be impossible to comply with such a request for several reasons, one of them being that it would be out of date before the stenographer had finished typing it.

Then, too(there are "wheels within wheels"—small alphabet agencies within big capital-letter alphabet agencies, and private alphaget combinations used only within larger organizations.

And within the small-letter agencies that are grouped and sub-grouped under the big capital letter ones, fresh alphabet combinations are created and "liquidated" almost every day.

For instance, under the executive agency of the president is a new sub-group known as the E D. A's, or Emergency Defense Agencies, which include

O E M (Office of Emergency Management)

O P M (Office of Production Management).

O P A C S (Office of Price Administration and Civilian Supply).

N D M B. (National Defense Mediation Board).

D D A R. (Division of Defense Air Reports)

D H C (Defense Housing Coordination)

O E A C. (Office of the Administration of Export Control)

I. M P's (Industrial Mobilization Plans)

O C D (Office of Civilian Defense)

C & C R (Office for Co-ordination of Commercial and Cultural Relations between the American Republics)

D. C B (Defense Communications Board)

N. D R C (National Defense Research Committee).

P. J. B D (Permanent Joint Board on Defense, United States and Canada)

And the S S S or Selective Service System

P. S. A.'s or Permanent Staff Agencies under the President, includes the O. G R (Office of Government Reports), the N R. P. B (National Resources Planning Board) and the L O P. M (Liaison Office for Personal Management).

Bride of Sunday on Trip

Miss Thelma Southward Weds Herbert Palmer, Shelby Resident.

A PEASANT style gown of white starched marquisette was worn by Miss Thelma Southward for her wedding Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock before the altar of the Mayflower Congregational church. The pretty formal bridal gown was fashioned with a very full skirt attached to a wide midriff, giving the lowered waist line effect and falling into a medium length train. The neckline was shirred into tiny piping tied with small bows and the low full sleeves were finished with a frill. The same piping was at the waist. Her finger tip length veil of white net was attached to a bonnet shaped cap trimmed with a row of pearls.

A shower bouquet of white carnations, pink rosebuds and baby breath was carried by Miss Southward as she approached the altar on the arm of her father, E. M. Southward. Rev. Leroy A. Coffey officiated for the single ring service in the presence of many relatives and friends. Nuptial music was played by Mrs. Giles Hamilton and Miss Geraldine Harley sang "I Love You Truly" and "At Dawning."

Nuptial vows were exchanged before the altar which was decorated with beauty baskets of glads and delphinium giving color to the background of greenery.

Miss Holly Baker and Miss Eileen Minard were the bride's attendants, wearing similar gowns of chiffon, made with very full skirts attached to a wide midriff. Their frocks were of the same type as the bride's. Miss Baker wore angora pink with rose velvet drawn through the beading which trimmed the yoke and Miss Minard's gown was in sweetpea purple trimmed in a deeper shade. Both wore poke bonnets in the matching shades of their gowns. They carried baskets in matching shades filled with garden flowers and streamers of ivy.

Howard Palmer of Shelby was his brother's best man and ushers were Harold Heston and Marion E. Southward, brother of the bride. Mrs. Southward wore a powder blue shadow sheer frock for her dauhgter's wedding and Mrs. Palmer's gown was of blue crepe with white accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of pink roses.

Fifty guests were entertained later at a wedding reception at the Southward home. Garden flowers in the pastel colors decorated the home and the appointments for the buffet luncheon were all in white.

Later Mr. and Mrs. Palmer left for a trip through the middle west. For traveling the bride wore a white frock with Kelly green trim and white accessories.

When they return they will reside at the Southward home for the summer. Mrs. Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Remember the Boys at Camp Is Advice

By BEATRIX FAIRFAX

A couple of weeks ago a woman writing to me wanted to know what she could send to her husband in camp, to let him know she'd been thinking about him every minute. I suggested several things.

First was a good photograph of herself, as she told me her husband had gone away with only a miserable snapshot, and she didn't want him to think of her looking like that. For the portrait I suggested a good hairdo and no hat. Above all, I urged her to try to look natural.

Then I urged his favorite "eats," and a few other things which didn't take up much room. A day or two ago I received the following letter from her:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

"I had a good laugh when I read that you thought my husband would enjoy some of his favorite home-cooking. He would, indeed, but it would probably arouse the laughter of the entire Post—his favorite is corned beef and cabbage. He never was a great hand for sweets, but he's a fiend for homemade bread. But wouldn't it look plain to send a man bread from New York to Alabama, and wouldn't it get stale by the time it reached there?"

Well, I had a good laugh at the idea of sending corned beef and cabbage to the Alabama camp. He could get plenty of it down there, not to mention hog jowls and greens, a native delicacy which makes a pretty good substitute. As far as the bread is concerned, a double wrapping of cellophane would keep it sweet and fresh.

Other inquiries for suggestions have poured in. One young wife had a pretty good idea of what would appeal to a homesick husband. She kept a diary, and under different days of the week put down all the things that happened, not only in their home but in the home town.

A page which she sent me read: "Monday: Slenderizing breakfast, orange juice, black coffee, poached eggs; so starved by 10:30 that I ate a quarter of pound of caramels. Had to pay six cents to the Lending library. Forgot to return book. Snooky (the cat) caught her first mouse. Whitewashed the chicken coop, intend to fatten chickens. Mrs. G's long-deferred baby arrived. A boy. They're considering names. I wanted to suggest lobster. Resisted buying aluminum saucepans. I hear the Govt. will need aluminum for airplanes . . ."

There wasn't anything special about the page of the diary sent, but think how homesick draftees, married not more than a year, would enjoy reading about these familiar happenings.

Mothers, wives and sweethearts have requested me to inquire from the War Department what they could send. Naturally, you wouldn't send anything too bulky for the limited space of barrack life. You may send books, magazines, things that won't be in the way, and you can send "eats."

As we used to say in those prigish little Christmas letters we were taught to write in school a couple of weeks before Christmas: "It's not only for the lovely gift I thank you, but the kind thought which prompted it." While lots of fun has been poked at the sentimental prevarication and the fibs it taught children to tell, still there's much truth in the old saw.

If you doubt your skill to turn out angel's food, fruitcake, fudges and pinochi, there is always the chain store on the corner and the confectioners' across the way. It's the kind thought which cheers the soldier boy in camp.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, July 1.

An eventful day, with far-reaching and radical effect on the life is forecast from the prevailing astral influences. There are signs of sudden and surprising adventures, probably in the love life, although all interests are under a sway of the precipitate and unpredictable. Business ventures of a novel or startling nature, with strange incitements or side issues are shown, although both old and new objectives may promise outstanding accomplishments. Thrills and romance may enliven the private life but particularly discreet and circumspect conduct is enjoined. Shun impetuosity.

Those whose birthday it is should expect a year of conspicuous achievements and dramatic experiences in both private and business life. New and old matters are under surprising stimuli, with the new profiting through bold and adventurous strokes. Possessions may have sudden spurts in values, probably through taking high chances, but the end is a firm and enduring security. The intimate emotional affiliations call for much restraint, discretion and moderation, to attain success.

A child born on this day should be endowed with many unusual talents, with much ingenuity and originality backed up by sound judgment and well-thought-out procedures. It should have a dramatic and successful life.

SANDWICH TREAT

Here is a grand toasted sandwich treat: Cover hot toast with thin slices of cheese, top with mushrooms, whole or sliced, and brush them with melted butter. Season lightly and broil or bake until well browned. Serve at once with a hot beverage, tossed salad and simple dessert.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

"From Gus?" I repeated with quickened interest, although I was quite sure what a message from my father's faithful superintendent to me would be—a caution to take care of myself

"I shall be very glad to hear it," I went on, and Philip Veritzen delivered the message quickly.

"He first sent you an emphatic admonition to get a physician at once," he said, "and then asked you to watch for a telephone from him.

"You will not need to talk over the telephone." Mr Veritzen went on. "Gus said you could have Mr. Milner tell him you had heard his message, but he wishes to telephone you as soon as they have their man safely hobbled and locked up to await your father's coming."

"I cannot imagine a more welcome message than that will be," I said, "and I am glad I can reassure Gus by speaking to him over the telephone in something approaching my natural voice. He is a most faithful helper."

Mary Visits Madge.

"He appears to be," Philip Veritzen said, but had time to say no more before Mary's light, unmistakable knock sounded upon the outer door of the suite. When admitted she rushed past Veritzen with only the briefest of apologies, and caught me in her arms, being extremely careful, despite her impetuosity, not to touch my throat.

"Oh, you poor darling!" she exclaimed. "I am so horrified! Mother told me what had happened, and assured me you weren't seriously hurt. But are you sure she was right?

"Don't try to talk!" she added, and I wondered, a bit captiously, how many more people would give me that injunction. "Just nod your answers."

"I am perfectly able to talk now, Mary," I told her. "That physician did wonders for me."

"I'll say he did," she answered in patent relief. "But your poor, poor throat! And how nearly you must have come to being killed!"

Finger Marks On Madge's Throat.

Her eyes held horrified realization of the peril which had come to me, and I hastened to reassure her.

"Never any danger of that, Mary," I said. "The men were too near me, and too prompt in capturing him. But I cannot go to your party with those prints of his finger marks on my throat."

"You won't have to," she said with decision. "Just wait a sec. I brought the right things with me, but tossed them to the nearest chair when I caught sight of you."

"What the well-dressed woman, if recently garroted, should wear," she intoned laughingly, and I saw that her relief at my escaping serious injury at the hands of the gangster had sent her irrepressible sense of humor into action again.

I recognized the delicate pieces of lace, when she spread them out before me, as copies of the high neckpiece which she wears attached to her gown in one scene of my play. With the touch of the "Mary, Queen of Scots" collar investing it, women have found it irresistible, and the vogue for the attractive things has waxed materially since the premiere of the play.

"This will do the trick, I fancy," she said. "Hold up yoh haid, honey, and let old Mammy fix yoh up."

I obeyed her with the smile which one generally gives Mary as tribute to the sheer charm of her, and she fitted the high collar around the neck of my gown, pinned it in the back, and then stepped back for a critical look at her handiwork.

"Perfect!" she declaimed. "Nobody will ever guess the camouflage. But"—she looked at me worriedly—"are you sure you're able to come over to the party?"

"Very sure," I answered. "But—I cannot go over until after 2 o'clock."

Dresses Are Draped In New Fashion Style

By MAX FACTOR, Jr.

HOLLYWOOD — (NS) — We've seen detail centered in the front of the dress, and in the back, but now the trim appears on the side and some very clever ways and means for doing it too.

Of course by this time the frock with side draperies is an old but still extremely smart story. So consider something much newer in the "wraparound" skirt or trouser for sports wear. Credit it to the South Sea Island bug that has bitten the West Coast where the pareo and sarong is just about everything. Priscilla Lane is wearing light blue sharkskin shorts that wrap to the left side where they fasten with peppermint-sized pearl buttons. Priscilla likes the black wool overskirt that follows the same line because these after-swim-and-tennis skirts in wool are the newest thing. What's more blue with black is a favored color combination with Priscilla.

Since taffeta is coming to the fore as a daytime fabric a "side detail" dress which Ida Lupino wears in "The Gentle People," designed and carried out in taffeta, is doubly important. Ida's slender model is a black taffeta with "chevron" stripes in black and white taffeta appliqued from shoulder to hem on each side. A little rolled collar and long fitted sleeves are piped in the striped material.

The newest suit blouse drapes to the side or crosses over the bosom to fasten on both sides and create the low v-shaped neckline that fashion decrees. Ruth Hussey is wearing this type of blouse and says its the most comfortable one she has and the easiest to get in and out of. One is in mustard gold wool jersey with gold buttons and worn with a black suit with elongated jacket slit to the waist to show the blouse worn outside of the very slender skirt. Ruth matches gold buttons with huge blobs of gold on her ears and tips off her pompadour with a narrow-brimmed black postillion with gold veiling.

And here is a novel that college girls will go for. Jane Wyman wears it with a short boxy jacket in cinnamon and yellow tweed. The skirt is in cinnamon suede with lacings of the plaid tweed, ending in long-stringed bow, running up the left side. These side "lacings" are popular in the evening, too. Lena Turner's black marquisette dress with sheer lace sleeves is laced up both sides with Irish green velvet, laced downward to end in large loops that accent the entire skirt.

Buffet Supper Delightful Change

By BETSY NEWMAN

Why doesn't mother serve a buffet supper to the family occasionally in place of the regular meal? It would be a change and everyone would enjoy it. Put this food on the table and let each one help himself.

Today's Menu.

Salmon Loaf with
Clam Chowder Sauce
Scalloped Potatoes
Tossed Green Salad
Cookies
Peppermint Candy Cup Cakes
Coffee

* * *

Salmon Loaf.

1 can salmon
1½ cups soft bread crumbs or ¾ cup dry, fine bread crumbs
2 eggs, slightly beaten
2 tablespoons melted butter
1 can condensed tomato soup

Drain salmon, pick out bones and dark skin. Mash and combine with remaining ingredients, put in buttered loaf pan and bake 45 to 60 minutes in 350 degree F. oven. Serve with clam chowder sauce.

Clam Chowder Sauce.

1 can clam chowder
½ cup milk or cream

Add milk or cream to chowder, heat, but do not boil, and serve over salmon loaf.

* * *

Peppermint Candy Cup Cakes.

1¾ cups cake flour
2 tsps. baking powder
¼ tsp. soda
¼ teaspoon salt
½ cup fat
1 cup sugar
2 eggs, separated
⅔ cup sour milk
Crushed Peppermint Candy

Sift flour, measure and sift with baking powder, soda and salt. Cream fat, add sugar gradually, creaming well. Separate eggs, add beaten yolks to butter and sugar mixture, then add dry ingredients alternately with sour milk and fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into well greased cup cake pans, and over the top of each sprinkle crushed peppermint candy. Bake in 375 degree oven for about 25 minutes. Let stand in pans a moment before icing. They may be left plain or iced with boiled frosting.

Modified Dolman Sleeves

"Half size" is a term skilled dressmakers and good stores apply to the short full figure which needs special designs. Here's Zoe de Salle's suggestion—a black and white silk dress, with a long-lined white wool coat cut to a pattern of simplicity. Modified dolman sleeves.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

BY Shepard Barclay

"The Authority on Authorities"

THEORETICALLY PERFECT

Theodetically perfect safety plays protect you against any possible distribution of the unseen cards and any possible order of play by them. When you can find such a play, it is the one which theoretically you should make. On other occasions, you can find ways to guard yourself against certain distributions, but not against all of them. At these times, your job is to protect the side against as many different distributions as possible. If there is only one against which you can guard yourself, then play for that.

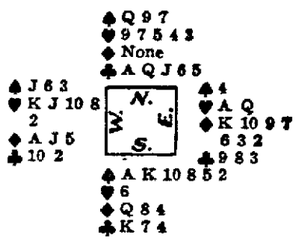
Now, nobody should bid a hand that way, unless very optimistic or reaching out for a top in a match point duplicate, when the diamond slam is the correct one. But then this hand was never dealt. It is a synthetic one to illustrate the correct play of those two minor suits. Suppose the spade 4 is led—the declarer must run 13 immediate tricks. So he must bring in five tricks in each minor.

There is only one difference between the two suits. In the case of the diamonds, only the J is missing among the dangerous honors. In clubs both the J and 10 are out of sight. The diamond suit may be made a sure thing by laying down one of the top cards in the hand containing two of them; if either defender "shows out," he is ready to finesse against the other one for the J.

In clubs, if the four missing cards are all in one hand, the declarer hopes East has them. He cannot guard himself against West having all four. Hence he must play to the single top honor in the dummy, the Q, which preserves his chance to finesse twice against the J-10. As the cards lie, correct play makes his contract, whereas wrong play of either suit would defeat it. Of course, if West had those four clubs, it would be just too bad. He could do nothing about it.

* * *

Tomorrow's Problem.



(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If the successive bids on this deal are: 1-Spade, 2-Hearts, 3-Clubs, 3-Diamonds, 3-Spades, 4-Diamonds, 5-Diamonds and Pass, what should South then bid?

Oatmeal Macaroons.

2 tablespoons butter
1 cup granulated suger
2 eggs
2½ cups rolled oats
1 tsp all-phosphate baking powder
1 tsp. almond extract
¼ teaspoon salt

Soften butter slightly, add sugar, then beaten eggs and almond extract, then oats, baking powder and salt mixture together. Drop by spoonfuls on greased pans and bake for about 12 minutes in hot oven.

Women to Play Vital Role In U. S. Defense

(Editor's Note: Mayor Fiorello H. La Guradia of New York, head of the office of civilian defense, is convinced of the ability of the American woman to play an invaluable role in the nation's defense effort. How the civilian defense director feels about the capability of the American woman is told in the following article, first of a series of six dealing with the American woman's part in the rapidly expanding defense program.)

By JANE COCHRAN
(INS Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON — "Petticoat brigades" are out of style in modern warfare—you can take it on the direct word of New York's fiery mayor, Fiorello H. LaGuardia, who was called to head the newly created government office of civilian defense.

Yet LaGuardia said today that millions and millions of American women, already being mobilized, "will do their part" side by side with men in every phase of the down-to-earth civilian defense effort.

Sitting in his shirt sleeves in back of a huge, work-littered desk, the explosive little mayor outlined to International News Service the part he and the government expect women to play.

"There will be no women's divisions," he said. "Women are going to be right in the squads with men. They will be in command in many cases and this will depend solely on the ability and leadership of the individual, not of sex."

Since the start of the emergency women have asked: "What may I do to help?" Their energy and enthusiasm is boundless. LaGuardia's office of civilian defense has the answer for millions of women, young and old. Right now they're being told their duties as they volunteer, and calls for volunteers for other vital preparedness jobs will follow in rapid order.

The charming woman in the second house down the block might soon be bearing the title "air raid warden." Her work and the work of millions of her countrywomen will prove "invaluable"—in many ways women will be of greater service than men.

"It takes a woman to have a full and complete appreciation of the necessity of protecting the home and human life," Mayor LaGuardia said. "Once we give them the basic facts they'll take to the work instinctively."

The woman's job might be simply seeing that her hard-working husband is well fed. Or it might be to train herself to mop up after destruction-dealing visits of enemy bombers. Again she might do the deft work required in turning out planes to make her country well-defended.

If there's any doubt about LaGuardia's attitude towards the important role of women in defense, this should dispell it—his second in command is a woman, Mrs. Florence Kerr, drafted from her position as assistant commissioner of the WPA to serve.

"American women will be found doing everything the British have done—and more—if the necessity arrises," Mrs. Kerr said.

Women have already been cast in prospective work in defense and this is what they can and will do:

Trained women will patrol city blocks as air raid wardens. They'll expertly care for children in an emergency and run canteens.

Recreational activities will utilize the services of women as well as work in communications. Theirs will be an important part in the food program now under discussion for the raising, processing and storage of food. They'll work in offices, in fire fighting auxiliaries and carry on the necessary jobs that are as yet only notes in the files of the office of civilian defense.

It's the community that will bear the brunt of the work of training the civilians for defense. All over the country people have spontaneously offered their help, to organize themselves in local defense councils. National headquarters is placing on them the responsibility, acting itself as a coordinating and planning agency.

Both Mayor LaGuardia and Mrs. Kerr were emphatic in stressing that the program of civilian defense is voluntary and that appeals for workers will be made to the citizens, as rapidly as the program expands. Volunteer organizations as well will be fitted into the picture.

The office of Civilian defense now is divided into three branches. The division of public safety includes work in fire spotting, public health, prevention of panics and protection of property and life. Clearance of streets and highways in the case of attack, assured continued functioning of gas, water and electricity are the responsibilities of the division of engineering, while the division of shelter and supply is concerned with emergency mass feeding, evacuation of homes and welfare works of all kinds.

While programs and methods of instructions are drafted in the Washington headquarters, the program is being decentralized as much as possible. Regional offices are being established in each of the nine army corps areas—New York, Boston, Maryland, San Francisco, Chicago, Omaha, San Antonio, Atlanta, Columbus, O.

Governors will represent the OCD in their states and mayors of municipalities will be in charge of the work in their areas, as far as possible.

Mayor LaGuardia stressed that existing state and local defense councils will not be supplanted, but rather will do the major work. The national set-up aims to avoid duplication, confusion and to set up standards of training for the whole country.

The police and fire departments will have to hustle—for they will train the most voluntary workers. Other agencies will be established to train for other work.

Mayor LaGuardia gives this advice to the women of America:

"Air raid wardens are being trained in many cities. Enroll there. Get first aid training. Then look around your community and get the total defense program in your mind. Do whatever you are best suited for to strengthen your community."

DOESN'T KNOW WIFE

SAN JOSE, Cal.—(INS)—Because he doesn't know who his wife is, Chester Millard, a contractor, wants an annulment. In his court action Millard declared that his wife, whom he wed in Reno last April, served a Los Angeles jail sentence for forgery under the name of Irene M. Willis, but told his friends that her name was Elaine Lynch, and had made charge accounts in stores in their neighborhood under nine other names.

The body of Major John Andre, British soldier executed as a spy in American Revolutionary war days, is interred in Westminster Abbey, London.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — "The Shepherd of the Hills." Screenplay by Grover Jones and Stuart Anthony from Harold Bell Wright novel. Directed by Henry Hathaway. Principals: John Wayne, Betty Field, Harry Carey, Beulah Bondi, James Barton, Marjorie Main, Marc Lawrence, John Qualen, Fuzzy Knight, Tom Madden, Ward Bond.

* * *

CALIFORNIA'S Bear Valley again doubles, in color, for other mountain country as it did for "The Trail of the Lonesome Pine." It is magnificent impersonating the Ozarks.

"Shepherd" is the story of the stranger (Carey) who came back to the hills and wrought works of good among the superstitious people. Cured Granny Becky's blindness, among other deeds, and that revealed the truth—that the man young Matt Matthews (Wayne) had blood-sworn to kill, his father, was this same good shepherd.

The killing scene, high spot of a meller which has many, has for purpose the removal of the curse on the embittered Matthews clan. What takes the curse off an essentially "corny" yarn is a screenplay and direction emphasizing the authentic mysterioso quality of the people, their picturesque talk, their philosophy—all fascinating. Carey, restrained and real, makes Dan Howitt a down-to-earth fellow, indulges in no psalm-singing or preaching. Betty Field continues to prove that she is one of the brightest stars in the galaxy, and John Wayne is an earthy hero.

* * *

"Man Hunt." Screenplay by Dudley Nichols from Geoffrey Household novel, "Rogue Male." Directed by Fritz Lang. Principals: Walter Pidgeon, Joan Bennett, George Sanders, John Carradine, Roddy McDowall.

* * *

A "chase" from start to finish, this tale of the English sportsman who stalked A. Hitler makes first-class melodrama. The Nazi philosophy takes a beating, as usual, but this is incidental to a speedy tale of hair-raising suspense. Pidgeon's fine as the hero, Sanders is a super-villain, and Miss Bennett, as a Cockney kid who helps the hunter escape the Gestapo, does surprisingly well. Note particularly the "silent movie" opening — most effective for interest-snatching.

SHAKEUP SEEN IN DEMOCRATIC SENATE BOSSES

Steering Committee Meets To Fill Vacancies Left By Harrison, Byrnes.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — A major shakeup in the Democratic leadership of the senate was imminent today as the majority party's steering committee met to fill vacancies caused by the death of Sen. Pat Harrison (D) Miss., and the pending retirement of Sen. James F. Byrnes (D) S. C., to become a supreme court justice.

The passing of Harrison left vacant the office of president protempore of the senate and the chairmanship of the powerful senate finance committee. Retirement of Byrnes will vacate the chairmanship of the senate's contingent expenditures committee and the post of presidential spokesman in the senate.

There will be no trouble filling the office of president protempore. Senate leaders already have decided to tender that honor to the 83-year-old Sen. Carter Glass (D) Va. It will constitute one more tribute to the venerable Virginia statesman.

Sen. Walter F. George (D) Ga., now chairman of the important senate foreign relations committee, meanwhile holds the key to the chairmanship of the finance committee which handles all tax and revenue legislation. George is in line for the finance chairmanship but has not yet made up his mind whether to accept it. His decision, one way or the other, will launch a series of further changes in senate committee chairmanships.

If George takes the finance position, either Sen. Robert F. Wagner of New York, or Sen. Tom Connally of Texas, will succeed him as foreign relations chairman. Some senators believed Wagner would pass it up because of prolonged illness.

Wagner is now chairman of the senate banking and currency committee while Connally heads the committee on privileges and elections. If either becomes foreign relations chairman, there will be further changes in committee chairmen down the line.

If George, however, remains as foreign relations chairman, then Sen. Walsh (D., Mass.) will become senate finance chairman. This in turn will vacate Walsh's present chairmanship of the senate naval affairs committee and initiate another series of changes in other chairmanships.

Sentenced To Reformatory In Bedroom Slaying of Her Husband.

PORTSMOUTH — (U.P.) — Mrs. Goldie Pauley, 30-year-old "plow woman" and mother of five children, pleaded guilty today to a charge of manslaughter for the bedroom slaying of her husband last Jan. 16.

Her plea came at the opening of her trial in common pleas court on an indictment accusing her of first degree murder.

Mrs. Pauley, an expectant mother next October, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the state women's reformatory at Marysville. The sentence is for one to 20 years and she will be eligible for parole in one year.

The frail defendant sat unsmiling as her plea was entered by her attorneys and Judge B. F. Kimble pronounced sentence.

Mrs. Pauley told the sheriff that Pauley, a WPA employe, once hitched her and a daughter to a plow and forced them to pull it in the field.

POLICE CHECK ROBBERIES AND BURGLARY HERE OVER WEEK-END

One burglary and four robberies in Mansfield over the week-end were being investigated today by Mansfield police. In one of the robberies, a masked man attempted to rob an east-side cafe but escaped with only 70 cents.

H. E. Taylor, 157 North Main street, janitor at Miller's Cafe on East Fifth street, told police that a masked man with a gun attempted to rob the place yesterday at 4:30 a. m.

Taylor said that he was cleaning the floor when he heard a screen being ripped out of the rear door. A man, wearing a white handkerchief across his face and having a pistol partly covered by another handkerchief, stepped into the room, demanding that he "stick 'em up."

Taylor stated that the man tried to open the cash register and became angry when Taylor said he was unable to open it. The janitor said that the robber took 70 cents in change from his pockets but overlooked nine dollars which was in his coat hanging nearby. He furnished police with a description of the man.

Harry Beal, Bellville, reported to police he was robbed of $111 late Saturday night by a stranger at Sixth and Main streets. Beal said that the stranger accompanied him in a cab from a downtown night club to the state liquor store at Sixth street.

Beal said that in an argument and struggle, the stranger took his wallet and fled.

Police also investigated other minor robberies and one case of attempted burglary. Mrs. Mabel Ross of 229 North Adams street reported that $12 in bills had been taken from a dresser in her home late Saturday night.

M. F. Weil, 36 Bartley avenue, said that he and his wife found a rear window removed upon their return home from a week-end trip but discovered nothing missing.

Howard Vogelsand, Shelby, R. D. 1, reported that a colored man had stolen 15 dozen eggs from his truck late Saturday.

Police arrested a suspect after Walter Stahlheber, 225 Bowland road, claimed that the man took ice books valued at $11 from his ice truck. Stahlheber is an employe of the National Ice company.

Guy E. Goldsmith, 22 Granite was surprised to find his auto stolen late Saturday but was even more surprised when police asked him about an accident at South Diamond street and Ford avenue. Goldsmith learned that the thieves who had taken his car had hit a fire hydrant at that corner shortly after midnight. He told police he believed that boys in the vicinity had "borrowed" the car for a joyride.

Thieves who apparently didn't object to hard work even in hot weather took the wheels off a wheat binder and a hay mower on a farm south of Lexington. Robert Davidson, owner of the equipment, told Sheriff Frank E. Robinson yesterday. Davidson said the steel wheels, which would bring a good price, probably were sold to a junk dealer. The thieves had to jack up the machines to remove the wheels.

THREE YOUTHS ARE CAPTURED AFTER CHASE

Trio To Be Charged With Car Theft, Shooting; One Wounded In Fight.

(By Associated Press)

FINDLAY — A 10-day absence without leave from the Quantico, Va., marine corps barracks which culminated in a bullet-punctuated chase by state highway patrolmen, wounding of one youth and capture of two others will bring charges of auto theft and shooting with intent to kill against the trio, Highway Patrol Sergt. F. E. Bollia said today.

Gilbert Marcus, 35, of Chicago, has identified the three as the ones who abducted him, left him standing in his underwear outside Michigan City, Ind., and took his automobile, Bollia said.

The officer identified the youths held here as: Joseph Sacilotto, 20, of Cleveland, Joseph Campisi, 20, of Brooklyn, N. Y., and Mario Liberatore, 20, of Geneva, N. Y. Liberatore, a bullet wound in his right arm, is under guard in a hospital.

Sergeant Bollia said they admitted stealing automobiles at Washington, D. C., Pittsburgh, Hamilton, and Michigan City, Ind., since leaving Quantico June 29.

The Delphos marshal saw the car reported stolen by Marcus and notified the highway patrol early Sunday. Patrolmen J. L. Bishop and G. A. Petticord spotted the machine at Beaver Dam and followed it as fast as 85 miles an hour while Petticord fired five rifle shots and the fire was returned, Bollia said.

After a 10-mile chase, the fugitives' machine overturned on a curve at Williamstown, 13 miles south of here.

The patrolmen reported that they found two 45 calibre automatic pistols in the wrecked machine and that all of Petticord's bullets had struck the car, one ranging up Liberatore's arm.

Ohio Troops Go Back To Shelby For Rest, Checkup

CAMP SHELBY, Miss — (U.P.) — Ohio's 37th division will return here tomorrow to take a rest, iron out weaknesses disclosed in recent maneuvers and prepare for more war games in Louisiana and Texas.

Before finishing the June games in the Louisiana swamp lands, Buckeye troops tried their skill in defensive tactics and under Major General Robert S. Beightler "dug in" instead of retreating and dared the enemy to attack.

Artillery and anti-tank guns swept roads and trails. The dense foliage bristled with machine guns and automatic rifles. A big stack of "hand grenades" (empty beer cans) were to be used to blast any enemy units which broke through.

But the enemy didn't come in force and was turned back after a few feeble attempts to break through the lines.

In the Louisiana-Texas games, the Ohio troops will join other forces totaling 500,000 men.

Braves Win Rain-Shortened Game From Findlay 1 to O

Sport Podge by REX HESS

"I see you had my name in the paper today," grinned Joe Donnelly, Ohio State league president, as he greeted me in the rain as yesterday's Braves-Findlay fracas was halted at the end of the sixth.

"That's right, don't forget me, no matter what you say about me," continued Joe, referring, of course, to the Sunday Podge column which rather laid him out for his delay in tagging on suspensions and fines on the Mansfield, Fremont and Fostoria clubs.

* * *

"Well, Joe, I gave you an out," I reminded him.

"That's right," he said, "and you hit on the exact cause of the delay when you said I might have been out of town. My boss went to the army and I was called in to the factory for two weeks

"When I got home I found not only the umpires' reports on the cases in question, but reports from friends of mine in the cities where the arguments occurred, men whose judgment I respect. And I lost no time in deciding on the suspensions and notifying the teams

* * *

"If I made enough money out of this league job, I'd be glad to stay home and give immediate attention to all cases that might come up. But I don't, so I have to supply the bread and butter for the Donnelly family by working at my regular job."

* * *

Donnelly did not attempt to defend his umpires

"I give them their instructions, and if they followed them they wouldn't have much trouble," he declared. "but I can't get out there and think for them.

"I've been searching high and low for good umpires, but they're hard to find at the money the Ohio State league pays. Furthermore, the league is rapidly getting a reputation for being tough on umpires, and the ones I might get otherwise won't come for that reason."

* * *

There have been some unkind fans who have tried to blame the weatherman for the steadily declining quality of the umpiring in this league

It's the heat so they say that makes the umpires that way

But I can't go along with 'em on that.

* * *

It's not the heat nor the humidity,
It's just the umpires' plain stupidity

* * *

Readers of this column undoubtedly are getting tired of reading about the umpires day after day.

I am getting even more tired of writing about them, even wearier than I am of looking at them

I hope they give me a chance to lay off 'em for a while

Cellar Dwellers Upset Millers

(By Associated Press)

Those Milwaukee Brewers may still be in the American Association cellar—but that doesn't mean they are "buried."

The Minneapolis Millers found that out yesterday Milwaukee slamming the ball hard for its new manager and owners pounded out 46 hits for 31 runs in two games to beat the league leading Millers twice, 19 to 12 and 12 to 5 The firstgame went 11 innings with the nightcap a seven-inning affair

Kansas City had a great opportunity to take the circuit lead as Minneapolis was boking to Milwaukee, but the Blues likewise had a losing afternoon. They took two beatings from St. Paul, 4 to 3 and 3 to 1 in well pticed games.

Indianapolis won its first double bill of the season turning back Toledo 5 to 4 and 5 to 2 largely on the strength of some distance hitting by Kermit Lewis, the Indian rightfielder.

Louisville, going into a virtual tie for second place with Kansas City, divided a doubleheader with Columbus The Red Birds won the opener, 6 to 4, with the Colonels coming back to take the second 4 to 3.

RACE MEET OPENS

TOLEDO —(AP)—Purses totaling nearly $50,000 await winners in the two-week Grand Circuit harness race meeting opening here tonight with an eight-race program. Opening events include the $1,100 one-dash sweepstake for two-year-old trotters.

Home Run Spoils Wolpert No-Hitter

Double By Dick Morse Drives In Winning Runs For Mansfield.

A MIGHTY two-base clout to the center field wall by Dick Morse in the fifth inning drove Manager Alex Clowson and Bobby Ankrum home with the two runs needed by the Mansfield Braves to edge out a 2 to 1 Ohio State league decision over the Findlay Oilers at the Fairground yesterday.

* * *

It was a welcomed blow. Findlay, held to one hit by Wolpert, made that one count when Stephenson lofted a high fly over the right field fence in the fourth, and with rain falling steadily through the fifth frame it appeared that one hit would be all they'd need.

* * *

But the noble athletes went one more frame in the downpour before Umpire Mort Watkins decided to seek shelter After a 20-minute wait the game was called because of wet grounds

Wolpert set the Oilers down in one-two-three order in every inning but the fourth when Stephenson connected for his circuit smash

Mansfield threatened in every inning but second, collecting eight blows off Whitey Cassell, obtained Saturday by Findlay from Fostoria when Manager Grover Hartley traded Joe Cannon to the Birds.

* * *

Two more runs might have been added to the Mansfield total, but Morse was out at the plate in the fifth trying to score from second on Tim Mangan's third hit of the game, a single to right, and Harry Siegbert also was tossed out at the plate in the sixth attempting to come home from second on Clowson's single to right.

* * *

Threatening weather held the crowd to the smallest Sunday gathering of the season, but even so it was a fair-sized throng that went home happy from the abreviated contest.

The Braves go to Findlay tonight, and then close the first half season with a game here Tuesday night with Tiffin, and at Tiffin Wednesday night

Indians Drop Farther Back

Fireman Feller Again Called To Halt Slump.

ST LOUIS—(AP)—There was no doubt about the Indians being in second place today for they were one and one-half games behind the Yankees, and once again it is Bob Feller's assignment to do something about it

He takes the mound today against the Browns with Denny Galehouse as opposition Al Milnar will hurl tomorrow night and then the Indians will have two days of rest before taking on the Browns again in a Fourth of July doubleheader at Cleveland And Feller undoubtedly will pitch one of those games.

* * *

During June Feller has accounted for six of Cleveland's 11 victories, as Jim Bagby and Al Milnar each got a pair and Mel Harder, Clint Brown, Joe Heving and Al Smith each took one.

* * *

Rain Roberts only loss during the month was to the Yankees while five other pitchers were dropping a total of 10 games—Milnar and Bagby three each Harder a pair Brown one and Smith one

Bagby was the victim yesterday as the White Sox administered a 9 to 3 pasting in Cleveland stadium getting eight runs in one night-marish inning the sixth after two were out

Lodigiani Appling Wright and Solters singled Chapman walked and Trosh singled which was the end of Bagby Mel Harder threw a wild pitch and walked Lyons and Holloway on eight pitches in the latter case forcing in a run

* * *

Harry Eisentat replaced Harder and walked Kuehl, forcing in the Sox' seventh run Lodigiani came up again and singled again, driving in two more runs. Appling's fly ended the carnage, in which six hits accounted for eight runs All of the Sox' 11 hits were singles

The Indians grabbed their last run in the seventh when Hemsley's single brought in Campbell who had walked

DiMaggio Breaks Hit-Mark

Connects In Twin Bill For 42nd Straight Game.

By GAYLE TALBOT

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

FROM today on it is Joe DiMaggio who must sit and watch nervously as one slugging youngster after another comes up to challenge his modern big-league record for hitting in consecutive games.

* * *

The long watch ended yesterday for George Sisler, the once-peerless first baseman of the St. Louis Browns, as he saw his record of hitting in 41 straight contests shattered after 19 years by the New York Yankee star in an exhibition that thrilled 31,000 fans in the nation's capital.

* * *

Jolting Joe, the new king, slammed a double in the first contest against the Senators to tie Sisler's record and then came through with a wildly-applauded single in the seventh inning of the nightcamp to stamp his name in the record book.

Perhaps inspired by DiMaggio's clouting, the Yankees are in the midst of one of the greatest streaks of sustained hitting ever recorded. In scoring yesterday's twin billing of the Senators 9 to 4 and 7 to 5, they ran the number of consecutive contests in which they had hit at least one home run to 25. Today they held a game and a half lead over the Cleveland Indians, who were throttled by Veteran Ted Lyons of the Chicago White Sox, 9 to 3.

The Boston Red Sox lost ground to the Yankees as they divided a double bill with the Athletics. Manager Joe Cronin hit a home run with the bags filled to spark a 13 to 1 victory in the opener, but Jack Knott stopped them in the nightcap, 3 to 2, on seven hits.

Detroit broke a four-game losing streak when young Hal Newhouser set the St. Louis Browns down on four hits, 3 to 1.

* * *

The two National League battlers, St. Louis and Brooklyn, fought to a draw as each divided a doubleheader, the Cardinals retaining their one-game lead.

* * *

Bucky Walters of Cincinnati outpitched Lon Warneke and two other St. Louis flingers to win yesterday's first encounter 6 to 2, but the Cards came roaring back to slug out a 14 to 4 win over five assorted Red throwers in the second.

Brooklyn gained a split with the Boston Braves, winning 5 to 2 and then losing 6 to 2 in the nightcap. Frankie Frisch's Pittsburgh Pirates thumped the Chicago Cubs twice, 8 to 2 and 3 to 2, thereby vaulting nimbly into fifth place in the National. The Giants tightened their hold on the third rung by biffing the unfortunate Phillies, 10 to 7. A scheduled second game was rained out.

GEORGE SISLER SENDS HIS CONGRATULATIONS

ST. LOUIS —(INS)— George Sisler, one of baseball's all time greats, today yielded the record he held 19 years to Joe DiMaggio of the New York Yankees.

Informed that DiMaggio had hit safely at least once in 42 consecutive games, thus cracking the record Sisler had held since 1922, the gallant "Sis" promptly telegraphed the Yankee slugger:

* * *

* * *

The great "Sis" established the record while playing first base with the St. Louis Browns from July 27 to Sept. 17 in 1922. While setting the record, he also batted .420, a feat which never has been equalled in the American league.

Seven Escape Death In Lake

Schooner Capsizes In Gale During Race.

TOLEDO — (AP) — In a race marked by near tragedy when the 11-ton schooner Porpoise capsized in a sudden squall, the Apache, sailed by Tom Fisher of Grosse Point Yacht club, bested 37 entries to win the 65-mile Toledo Yacht club Mills trophy race Sunday.

* * *

The seven men in the Porpoise escaped drowning by clinging to a spar of the sunken boat while waves more than six feet high rolled over their heads.

* * *

They were picked up in 45 minutes by a coast guard cutter, signaled to the scene of the accident southeast of Detroit harbor light by another contestant in the race.

Occupants of the Porpoise were Robert E. Rath, Robert L. Dowds and Elgin C. Brooks, all of Toledo; J. E. Thomas of Marion, O.; and Homer Reibolt, Edward J Roberts and Dr. Edward C. Weigand, all of Sandusky.

The Apache had 10-minute edge over the Royono, sailed by J B. Ford of the Grosse Point club, which won the Dwight Kelsey Memorial Bowl for first to cross the finish line.

DELIVERED IN WINTER

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—The Ohio division of conservation, in co-operation with sportsmen's organizations, is using a novel means to apply gravel on Indian Lake's bottom. Truckloads are dumped on the ice. When it melts the gravel is deposited on the lake floor and good spawning grounds for large-mouth bass are formed.

Crowd Pulls For Zivic Win

Hopes To See Bummy Blasted From Ring.

By HARRY FERGUSON

NEW YORK—(UP)—It would be nice to say that the crowd at the Polo grounds tomorrow night is going to maintain a fine sportsmanlike attitude of benevolent neutrality during the passage at arms between Welterweight Champion Fritzie Zivic and Al Davis, but actually a blood-thirsty collection of customers will be hoping that Davis gets his brains scrambled.

A group of the pugilistic literati, as the fight writers style themselves, were sitting around debating the question of who was the most unpopular fighter ever to appear in a New York ring. One bloc held out for Jack Sharkey, the Boston sailorman, who, in truth, took an awful going over every time he crawled through the ropes.

* * *

There was no one particular reason why Sharkey collected such a bumper crop of raspberries, but it's true that the mere sight of him infuriated the customers.

A majority, including Yours Truly, thought that Davis should be awarded the poison ivy laurel.

Davis is a tough kid from the Brownsville section of Brooklyn where anybody who can't open a can of tomatoes with his teeth is considered a softy. He has an Eric Von Stroheim swagger and a Boris Karloff sneer, which have helped him achieve the unpopularity championship

Co-eds Swing In First Golf Joust

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Thirty-five co-eds from 20 colleges tee off today in the 18-hole qualifying round of the first women's national intercollegiate golf tournament on the Ohio State university course.

* * *

The four-day women's event follows last week's torrid men's 44th national intercollegiate championship won by Earl Stewart of Louisiana State with a 2 and 1 victory in the finals over Ray Brownell, Stanford's Pacific coast intercollegiate king.

* * *

Scores in today's qualifier will determine the team championship for which only four schools —Ohio State, Purdue, Michigan State and Rollins (Fla.)—are competing.

The 16 qualifiers begin match play tomorrow, with the eight first round losers making up a separate flight. The 18-hole final is set for Thursday.

Eleanor Dudley of Chicago, former Illinois and western junior champion, is pre-tournament favorite. A co-ed at the University of Alabama, Miss Dudley thrilled the galleries in the recent women's western open at Cincinnati with her driving and long iron game.

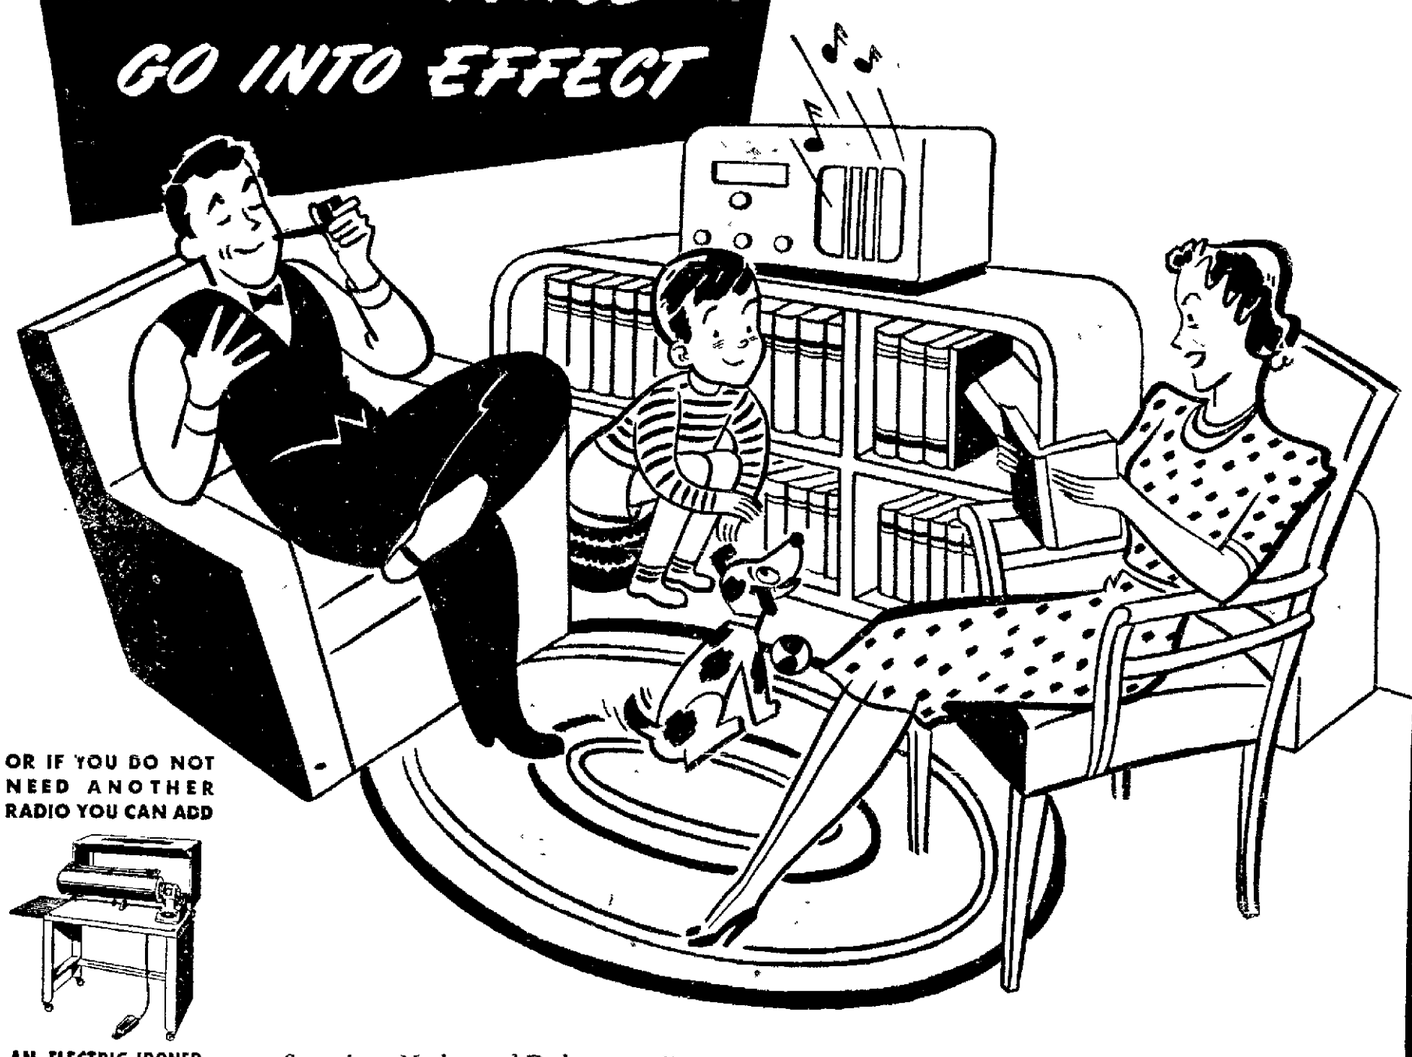
YOU CAN ENJOY A SECOND RADIO IN YOUR HOME... WITHOUT INCREASING YOUR ELECTRIC SERVICE BILL*



OR IF YOU DO NOT NEED ANOTHER RADIO YOU CAN ADD

AN ELECTRIC IRONER

AN ELECTRIC ROASTERETTE

AN I.E.S. LAMP

Sometimes Mother and Dad want to listen to one radio program and the children want to listen to another . . . sometimes the children want to dance in the recreation room and the main radio of the home is too heavy to carry downstairs . . . and sometimes when someone is ill they want a radio in the bedroom. There are many other reasons, too, why a second radio in the home is almost a necessity in this day and age. When Mansfield's new, low electric rates go into effect it will be easy to own a second radio. First, because the small table models are so low in price. And, second, and most important, the new, low rates will make it possible for you to use a second radio . . . and even a third . . . without increasing your electric service bill. So satisfy every member of the family, and have the fun of listening to just the programs you want when you want them.

*Many Mansfield electric service customers pay from $1.85 to $2.60 a month for service. The number of additional kilowatt hours you will be able to use, without increasing your electric service bill above its present amount will depend, of course, on your present usage.

PLAN TO PREVENT MICHIGAN TRANSPORTATION 'BOTTLENECK'

DETROIT—(INS)—Long range planning has eliminated possibility of a transportation "bottleneck" when defense production swings into high gear in Michigan.

Foreseeing that transportation facilities might become clogged under pressure of mass production of defense materials, the Automobile Manufacturers' Association has established a special traffic division to clear the way for the load to come.

Pointing out that Michigan automobile concerns are expected to handle more than $50,000,000 in defense contracts, an AMA spokesman declared the organization's traffic division has held frequent conferences with railroad and trucking concerns as well as with traffic departments of major automobile firms.

Thus, according to the spokesman, it 's anticipated that when defense materials begin to pour from assembly lines they will be speedily whisked away to their destinations.

The railroads, it was learned, will undoubtedly handle a sizeable portion of defense deliveries. But the trucking companies will be handed many delivery contracts as will the navigation companies whose boats ply the Great Lakes and inland rivers—that is when it is deemed feasible and practical to make water deliveries.

The spokesman did not exclude the possibility that airplanes may be called upon to rush deliveries of smaller items, such as vital plane engine parts, in the event emergencies occurred.

He disclosed how plane transportation of plane motor parts proved practicable when certain samples were hurriedly needed in Detroit a few weeks ago. At that time, army transports converted into "aerial freight trains" sped the parts to the motor city.

FIXED SALARY

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. —(INS)— City Purchasing Agent C. V. Nunn knows it's no use asking for a raise. On the other hand, he knows the city isn't likely to cut his pay. The reason is that it would cost the municipality about $11,000 just to change Nunn's salary a cent either way. That's because his salary of $200 monthly is stipulated in the city charter, and an election would be necessary to change the figure.

Efficiency experts of a transcontinental airline estimate the company saves $20 a year for each pound it eliminates from the weight of its equipment.

DEFINITE TREND FAILS TO SHOW UP ON MARKET

Dealings Reported Often at Standstill Despite Lack of Bearishness.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The stock market searched unsuccessfully today for a definite trend. While there was little weakness apparent in any department, such gains as appeared were in small fractions. Dealings frequently came to a standstill near the second hour.

Wall Street, while not particularly bearish, inclined to proceed carefully marketwise pending clarification of German - Russian claims and counter-claims in the new war shift. Domestic business developments, brokers said, provided some speculative sustenance.

Those watching steel shares studied the survey of the magazine "Steel" which reported sales in this industry still were running at 135 to 150 per cent of capacity and that this meant backlogs of orders on books continue to ascent with no relief in sight.

A prop for rail stocks was found in the forecast of the 13 shippers' advisory boards which placed freight loadings in the third quarter at 7,272,955 cars, or 14.8 per cent above the comparable 1940 months.

PIANIST HAPPY AS ARMY 'KP'

Concert Artist Does Kitchen Duty To Show Appreciation To Adopted Country.

DENVER—(U.P.)—Hans Pap, who fled from Austria where he was a concert pianist when Adolf Hitler took over in 1938, now is Pvt. Pap of the army air corps.

Pap was known to the concert stages of Vienna and Paris, but now he is equally well known to the "kitchen police" detail at Lowry Field. That's where he started out at the army air corps technical school.

The 30-year-old Viennese concert pianist was drafted in New York and assigned to Lowry Field after being inducted at Fort Dix, N. J.

"I don't mind it a bit," Pap says. "It's the least I can do to show my appreciation to my adopted country."

He participated in the Salzburg Festival and met Arturo Toscanini, the conductor, who arranged concerts for the University of Vienna graduate when he arrived in the United States.

"When the Nazi army took over Austria it didn't take long to discover my Jewish ancestry made me, to say the least, undesirable," he says.

"My savings were confiscated and I knew it would be only a short time until I landed in a concentration camp if I remained in the country.

"Without funds I did not know how I could reach the United States but finally friends in this country guaranteed my passage and eventually I reached New York."

He applied for citizenship papers one week after he arrived and now has his first papers.

He had signed a contract to appear as a pianist on television broadcasts when he was drafted.

"But I'm not listed as a musician in the army," he says. "I studied photography, too, in Vienna and I'm out here as a photographer with the air corps."

'CLINIC' URGES JOB FORESIGHT

Massachusetts Men Form Club To Assist Prospective Job-Seekers.

QUINCY, Mass.—(U.P.)—More than 100 job-seekers have been aided in finding their proper niche by a group of nine successful business men who formed a "job clinic" here a year ago.

It was the idea of a wealthy Quincy banker and philanthropist who invited a board consisting of a newspaper editor, a power company official, the secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, the superintendent of schools, the city librarian, two business executives and two vocational directors, to undertake the project. This group meets once a week and interviews applicants for guidance.

They advise the job-seeker to know exactly what kind of a position he wants and if he wants to be doing that type work 10 years later. They suggest he arrange all his assets, line them up and prepare an intensive campaign to sell his services.

And finally they advise an applicant to "spread himself" through every available agency that might assist him in locating his proper place.

Their five principles of job-hunting follow:

Appeal to the self-interest of the prospect.

Be specific.

Be different.

Be your own self—be sincere.
